

As the Monsignor at the Monastery of Ostrog, I have given R. A. Feller, friend to those at Calington Court, liberty to take my notes and write them into meditations for clarities sake.

We met in secret throughout many a night and his pen seemed to reflect my thoughts. Speaking to him of all of my adventures, quite vigorously at times, we talked 'til having a like-mindedness to pass on my wealth of a heritage of wisdom.

My teachings are a culmination of over forty years of study, which I saw him apply to his life. Now that his knowledge has become wise, he walks in the light. A very sobering Feller to talk with to say the least as when challenged he prays 'til God makes things right. I've watched Him move on him every time.

My responsibilities of managing the monastery and the affairs of life have hindered me in my studies, but not the same story for the author of my notes who I watched pen diligently night and day while looking into the light of God, with a sort of envy and yet even sorrow at times.

Talking to him, I saw that he had something new to share each time as I watched him grow in his relationship with The Great One during our encounters each year.

Now he is a man of substance as his life has abundantly been filled, seasoned as wise as a serpent and as harmless as dove. He takes patient time to be gentle and listen with love. I have watched him enjoy the presence of the Lord where turning matters over to Him strife he avoids. For he has kept his hand in God's 'til becoming a reward. Now here is his writing that I know you'll enjoy.

The Tree of Life

In my over forty years of studying full reality through the given laws of divine nature, I have drawn conclusions that are in this book. Every tree has the essence of a God given nature. This meditation will discuss what God has to say about all the design of His creation.

Pause and ponder each step of coming into being:

“I see men as trees walking” were the words of a blind man being healed by Jesus laying His hands over His eyes. When God creates, He takes a little piece of the being of Himself and sparks forth life through the light of love in the essence of His omnipresence in everything. This is the glue that holds all of creation together as God as creator expresses Himself.

In the beginning, God created by the use of His expression of word, which generated pure light for the truth of the Spirit of His love to be made manifest.

Now moving on the surface of the face of the waters, which He has formed with creation set in order, God created mankind in His own image; male and female He created them. (It is my feeling that as a threefold cord cannot easily be broken, He did not create a man to birth another humankind by himself or female to reproduce after herself for this could spark an uprising against Himself, should mankind have had equal power. I further suspect that by creating two separate human beings to honor the truth of love, He could have fellowship with them together as one without the threat of an uprising as what happened when Lucifer fell from his pride in rebellion to become Satan here in time. Perhaps God divided their power to be complete as one and have unity to further create by the truth of His light of love. I further believe this truth is spiritually conveyed in the creation of hermaphrodites, which appear periodically unto this day.) So, God blessed Adam by giving him dominion over the whole of all creation, plants, animals, fish, and birds alike, telling them to be fruitful and multiply. Nothing good was withheld from them in God's justice. However, there was the fruit of the knowledge of good and evil, pleasing to the eye with a wonderful fragrance that happened to smell very sweet, but when the fallen angel, Satan, suggested, "You certainly will not die but become wise from its fruit. Eat of it and you will become like God," to man's helpmate, Eve. Adam was by her side. The fruit was incomplete at its core with decay and death, for God had warned Adam that the day he would eat of it he would surely die. Taking on its incomplete nature, he lacks the substance of His own complete image as he listened to Satan's lust in place of God.

The First man failed to heed the voice of love, which was proof that he no longer reflected the true image of God's embrace. Adam now spoke from darkness rather than light where his now sin nature is missing the presence of God.

All men are now trapped in the length of the breadth within the heights and the depths of time, cut off from God's presence by the heritage of Adam's bloodline of death. Severed from the vine of life; we now die.

Mankind is a branch cut from the vine of life in the dark and because of this, there is decay and death. Without brilliant light, minds go dim and by making poor choices, we hurt ourselves while in the confusion of the dark. Why else would we become like a bull in God's delicate world and trample it underfoot?
