GONE SANE

An Open Door to Inner Healing

By

R. A. Feller

Is the World in a Psychosis?

As a child, I was led to believe that everything was fun and games, but when all my friends either moved or went onto other endeavors, I quickly found myself very much alone. Then I discovered that the merry-go-round ride of life I was on started to spin out of control and was not so merry. Left to fend for myself emotionally due to neglect, I was left unprepared to face the onslaught of what was coming. For no one ever taught me that life was a training ground for us to prepare for what was to come next. Later, I discovered when one does not interpret truth correctly, they can find themselves in places not desirable while trying to find answers. Yet by God's mercy, I was taken under His wing and He protected me to be trained for a purpose.

We all practice what we do not understand when the root of life is missing from our sight. Rolling like tumbleweeds without taking root to grow in height for greatest sight, we trust to believe others have answers while unstable. For when others are deemed as stable while drawing untested conclusions for reality itself without any vision, all becomes a perfect example of instability.

By not questioning life here, we will always fall victim to the commotion of instant experts that are really lacking in the roots of maturity. They have no sound spiritual answers to back them up. For how can anything grow beyond the shadows of circumstance while unseen evil spiritual forces keep the veil of time perpetually in a fold that is unstable in a skewed reality?

Without knowing what we believe and why, all becomes deception. For when not knowing that there's a door between good and evil, it becomes an opportunity left open for us to make poor choices. All are perpetually blown into dark places by the spiritual motions or whirlwinds to throw off our judgment. I wonder. Is this kind of spiritual energy which lends to wreak havoc in the physical winds of the world that arise as tornados in which we live a part of this energy? For energy is never used up, it's either transferred or stored. Even animals can sense when the energy of our emotions are off.

During the 1980's, I attended a church run by Pastor David Wilkerson. Time Square Church had many outreaches, one of them was called, "The Upper Room." This is where I was led to serve as a believer in the body of Christ. I would fast for three days a week in preparation to go out into the streets of New York City on Saturdays and Sundays to minister to homeless people. I learned many spiritual lessons while witnessing many healings and miraculous transformations in countenances of spirits within the souls of many. I was in spiritual boot camp and I loved being in service to the Lord as it gave me purpose.

I was also attending services at the church three days a week, I could not get enough of the Lord as His affirmations and His acceptance was amazing. It was here that my addictions fell by the wayside because God's love was so much better than what my flesh, the world, and the devil had to offer. I was being transformed by the power of God and I knew that it wasn't me changing me, which built up my faith and a trust in a relationship with God.

When we are caused to release our energy by expending it needlessly in our travels of flowing in dark motions while passing unaware throughout time, there is the possibility of giving it away to minions. These spiritual dragons are always hungry and look for food to harvest all of the time. So we must fight against these spiritual winds by calling on the stability of God while in the instability of our handbreadths on our journeys throughout time. Everything progressively shakes in reality by motions of dark energy to harvest all spiritual light and life from time's depths, which sucks us into a progressively dying death.

Becoming prevented from being planted in stability or even seeing God's foundation while having no stable place to grow from, we are lost. Being blind to our striving to obtain possessions, energy gets released and a door is left open for other spirits to own us by acquiring our possessions through unfocused strength. For in the use of expending energy, it gets siphoned out of us. Yet when we do everything in the reality of gratitude in a gifted world that we receive from God by grace, we know being provided for and can trust Him. He meets all of our needs when everything is seen through eyes of humility. I now do everything as unto the Lord and am able to enjoy His presence of light and life on an eternal scale of grace. I am still learning and growing to understand how “God resists the proud, but gives grace to the humble.”

On the streets of New York City while evangelizing, I did everything in spiritual pride at first as not listening to anybody else made me unreachable while remaining unteachable. God finally humbled me, for finding myself very much alone by sharing green bitter fruit from the vine of Christ, I realized that I was chasing everyone away by my using my own strength and my flesh stunk to high heaven. I gradually realized that people were running away from me not because I was holy, but obnoxiously self righteous. It was not until I learned to slow down and abide in the Vine of Christ that transformation happened. I became as a ripe fruit on His vine and bent the branch to touch the world. His fragrance of a pleasing character then came forth as the fruits of the Holy Spirit began to manifest themselves in me to reflect His image.

“God is a rewarder of those who diligently seek Him.” He has gifted me with moving at a slower humble pace to have an even greater perception while at rest within an eternal space of peace that surpasses all understanding here on earth. This is where messenger angels from God now meet with my pen. For while at an accelerated pace without any spiritual sight, pride caused me to take it for granted that someone who was a grown up had all the answers and my thoughts left me in a hurry to find them. What I was really looking for though was a deep relationship with God while learning that, “The Holy Spirit is the leader and guide into all truth.”

I was comfortable in my own place of control. For it made me feel uneasy to go away and become no more in an ever progressing relationship where God was going to become greater than I.

I then realized in order to have Him lift me up, I had to dive all the way in to receive His Gift of self control and have God’s confidence take the place of my own in a full spiritual swim. Surrender became my answer because I became aware that faith had to take me the rest of the way for my Lord’s living waters to bear me up and experience what everyone had been talking about for myself.

Reaching a height in my own life to see that no one knew what they were doing, I finally realized everyone had been guesstimating and this made it easier to trust God more. So, if I were going to find any definite answers, I would have to embark on a journey of investigation of my own or fall prey to believing that instability was stability myself, which would also leave me in the dark.

Little did I know that my journey was going to take an over forty year turn to find answers beyond just doing the best that you can to live an empty life. We either just survive reality in the status quo flow or escape it by finding the answer to what it is to live a truly full life. A part of my purpose now leads me to share some accounts of more of my story.

In the fall of 1988 in the chill of night, I stood staring into a translucent lighting fixture in an outdoor stairwell trying to find out the answer to the meaning of how to embrace the light within it. How I got to this point is debatable. Yet this was the case for myself while not being able to find answers to “why?” my questions were not obtainable. At this time, I did not know it, but I was at the threshold of discovering the spiritual world on an even deeper level.

I then went home to an apartment building on Henry Hudson Parkway in New York City to find myself locked out of my apartment. My wife, now ex-wife Dawn, having studied psychology, three courses shy of her doctorate, looked at my exploring truth while looking for “The Truth” as off-color and refused to let me in the house with the chain on the door. So she persuaded me, due to her concern, to have myself evaluated by psychiatrist’s at a hospital voluntarily. This premise was a promise to let me back into the apartment afterward. I found the doctors at the hospital to be off-color. The way they probed me for information was uncomfortable, yet they were responding to me getting some bad or perhaps good teaching at my church.

I originally was inspired to go on a quest to understand how to evangelize, but now I was led in another direction. I discovered learning the spiritual world through trial and error in a field that I knew nothing about till experiencing it instead, first hand.

Here is what else happened that night after being enroute to our apartment, coming off the streets of evangelizing in New York City and fasting for three days while the Spirit was heavily upon me. I parked my car in the back of our building and was led to this stairway in the building next to ours and when I stopped, I found myself looking up at the fixture of light. During this time, I later found out that an ambulance had been called for a mental health crisis check, which I missed during this time of gazing at the light. I later discovered that a police car came with the ambulance to take me to the hospital in the Bronx. It was a backup to be evaluated and even though I was cognitive enough to answer all questions asked of me, coherently, I ended up going. In the car while enroute, I shared about Jesus and the patrolman cried tears of joy by the time we got to the hospital. The officer left me at the hospital as a matter of protocol and could not remain as another call which he responded to on his walkie-talkie came in. I was placed under surveillance while I continued to share the word of God with others. Yet lacking in wisdom, I did not hold to the kingdom of peace. For compulsive became my manner like a strong wind without end before I learned of some hospital workers professing to be Muslim. They taunted me and becoming alert, I quieted down as I had heard rumors of them being hostile to Christians. It was in this frame of mind, I was next brought before the doctors.

Looking back, I can see that there were spirits behind the doctor's thoughts and I was lacking in the ability to be able to express it to them. So, I would not talk, believing that if I did, they would deem me as crazy for I only partially knew the word of God and was not yet able to discern what to do. For being out in the dregs of spiritual war zones, I had not yet learned to separate myself, or not, from discerning transitional spiritual levels in hindsight.

Not recognizing depths of transition that were unknown to me at the time from dealing with the poor and homeless to go back to being among the rich was an overlooked mystery. For now with a heightened sense of spiritual awareness, the spirits that I saw in others when on the streets were more prevalent to behold among my peers. At present, it can be seen while following my Lord in the past, it was spiritually unknown that there was a good reason for me to feel alienated among everyone around. Why, I was spiritually tripped to be taken out and be put away before I could fully learn to discern how to be in and out of season among everyone on all levels. There is a timing of the Lord to only connect with the people who are genuinely looking for help and not those who are not, no matter what be seen. It is now my hope that more healing will take place as I grow in the light of the truth in my relationship with the Lord.

So, after ending up barricading myself in the doctor's office with a column of chairs that I interlocked with each other going across the room, due to having my mind attacked, I refused to let them back in. Lacking understanding what to do next, I became fearful when they threatened to give me medication against my will before leaving the room. That's when I noticed the cracks in the walls and the little cartoonish-looking characters, arguing and beating each other up. The spiritual world is very real when going through the door of darkest dim up into light.

However, when more understanding comes, things that hide in the dark recesses of the mind get exposed.

This insight is what I deem the psychiatric world to call psychosis and while acknowledging this unseen world of presence that had distracted me in the form of a sea of thoughts from life, I approached even more light. I realized that the Spirit of the living God had revealed them for me to pass through the friction of their distracting visuals, which tried to influence me by their thoughts. These little minions that hid in the shadows of the dark, once they knew that I knew that they were increasing my faith, became burned away while entering through what I deem a fiery trial. A door started opening with a brighter light of understanding, completing this stage of my growth as they had retreated out of sight to God's deeper presence. For when the warmth of God's love was embraced while growing to new heights, a greater Spirit replaced their thoughts within the vision of my mind. Then the door became closed on them as I moved onto a new area of growth in my life.

The doctors discovered being locked out of their office and I did not know what to do as I could not figure out how to get an outside line on the phone to call the police because I did not want to receive medication or at least not till I was fully evaluated. So, I started praying in tongues of the Holy Spirit for about an hour while they tried to break down the door. I told the doctors that I was finally ready to talk after they refused to hear some of the teaching tapes that I had been listening to from my church. I wanted them to understand my line of thought that was fed me.

However, having earlier surrendered my mini-tape recorder and tapes for the doctors to listen to, to understand my line of reasoning which they chose not to do, and having to go to the bathroom while thirstily starving became a bit much. I finally said that if they promised to hear me out, I would remove the barricade from the door. They lied and a number of large orderlies who were very abusive with me slammed me on a desk after throwing its contents on the floor, shot me up with Haldol in my backside, and put me in a straight jacket with leg restraints before locking me in a padded room. The last thing I remember is drifting off into a black sleep. Later I learned that the Apostle Paul said, “You do not take a recent convert and make him a part of the authority of the church lest he be deceived by Satan and tarnish Christ’s teachings or name.”

After being transferred by ambulance from North Bronx Central Hospital to Cornell Medical Center of Westchester County, which I’ll call an assimilation zone back into the darkness of a psychosis within a dark world of a false societal structure in which we live, happy acres. For the demons which live in improperly trained medical practitioners minds, which get people to focus on mindsets of tasks to keep them moving along in a dim world are clueless themselves. I question myself, “Was I misdiagnosed?” To this day I still wonder. The highlight of my stay was the discovery of other people who were legitimately mentally unwell that I could compare myself to as reference points to help guide me through understanding the situation I was in.

There was a dentist who was in a midlife crisis. He didn't take the time out to seek what he enjoyed in life to find purpose for living. He had got caught up in a medical field that was a money machine to him which caused him to drown spiritually due to a spirit of greed that blinded him to finding the gift from God that would have given him purpose for living. There were also those who had hallucinated about seeing things like bush hedges turning into German soldiers with machine guns that were shooting bullets who had definite chemical imbalances within their minds. Also, there were those who were traumatized (abused) into being false identity people to fit into a world of suppression in a system of something they were never gifted to be. I deemed them to be prisoners within themselves, taken captive by a lying false central spiritual rule to drain them of their energy, which is never used up but transferred or stored in hindsight.

I discovered this by breaking free of this spiritual world's system myself. Do we really have limitations beyond what is imposed on us, which keeps us in spiritual straight jackets to miss the eternal freedom within the truth of the Spirit of the life giving and living God? When we overcome our limitations by focusing on the light of the true and living God, we find inner peace within His eternal kingdom because it ceases to be in motion like the spirits of this world. I discovered anxiety ceases when the light of a relationship with faith is understood here. For we can now rest comfortably within our own skin while in the joy of God's presence.

When a world, which is not in motion comes, the truth of reason breaks through spiritual winds and our emotions of love come into balance while joining together within a focus that is still. This is where we break out and find the freedom of being born again into God's kingdom. We are found still in this world and spiritually no longer tossed around within it. Then this spiritual world system disappears to the light of encountering a blissful peace and we only remain here to walk in the light when we truly trust that Jesus Christ has more to offer in His kingdom than here on earth. We either break out of the spiritual psychosis that this world is in or become ground down to little pieces of broken nothingness where the fusion energy of our nuclear souls become stolen away.

I feel creation has a message that ties in with this on a spiritual level. It would be how a caterpillar devours everything around its environment until it encases itself from its strands of thread till its cocoon is formed. Though not all of them make it out of their cocoons to fly away as butterflies as surrounding threads can be like bad influences, like when our choices without God leave us feeling incomplete from missing His presence. We know this when uneasy at times, for when God's Spirit of life goes missing, there is boredom or uncertainty from not being joined to His love. Though when we invite God back again by asking Him for wisdom, there is a light that not only clears confusion up but gradually leads us on until we find our way back into God's arms of love for healing to take place again. These were the areas in life where we were missing the truth of all the threads in our relationships with God till He pulled them together. For we were left incomplete and unable to complete our cocoons till he, as the living seed, enters the chamber of His gathered bride with the life of His blood to allow us entrance into His kingdom again. I see us as not hatching properly unless God takes up the slack by grace and feeds us the essence of the seed of Himself through His regenerative resurrection of blood.

Having a thorn in my flesh of medication to balance me out is a humbling experience that God has blessed me with. I do not know all things, but it is good to be reminded at times that His grace is sufficient for me while being taught by Him in His timing about the any of everything.

My Breakthrough Point

So, there I was lying on a bed in happy acres with my feet on the wall, heavily medicated, trying to make heads or tails of the paradigm shift going on in my brain. I started to walk on the wall and while turning my body from this perspective in bed, from my back to my side, it was impressed on my mind that God had chosen me for a task. Yes, after being slowed down and embraced by the God of love through the door of the light of Jesus Christ, I became healed to be chosen with balanced thoughts and emotions which gave me an eye of clarity to see and walk with sight.

The Spirit of God next directed me to get up and walk out into the hall. I did so. Taking a left turn, I walked up to an orderly and told him in so many words what I was experiencing. He gave me the message, “Why don’t you write it down?” It was as though an angel spoke to me in hindsight and from that time on, I have been writing in the light, growing with a keener focus every single day with short time lapses to gain greater perspective in between. I have received hundreds of accurate meta-physical visions in my state of being while entering into heaven on my journey, which have lined up with scripture. They have been like road signs, which I have been documenting along the way and it has only just dawned on me that people in my life are orchestrated just like my visions with their spoken words to me as well. For it has been revealed to me in the light that our actions and spoken word yield a power for creation depending on how they line up with peace, or from the lack thereof, towards issues of life and death on all matters.

I now know that everything must line up with a correct interpretation of scripture for all to have a truly full life. For when something does not line up, it is like walking around with a missing puzzle piece and my peace is not restored to me until I become fitted together correctly. My first book, “Living Your Life according to Connecting the Dots By Number,” was a part of me fitting pieces of my life together. Although it was very healing for me, God was still fitting me together while I was learning to stay out of His way. I discovered when looking back upon it that there were other believers that fed me doctrinally who were in error some forty years ago. Though while writing my other books and the Calington Castle series all became clear to be straightened out. The nine book series at calingtoncastle.com is a great way to be entertained into deep faith.

Angelic Incident

It takes quite some time to adjust to medication that balances out the mind till things are seen with a clear perspective. Once my reality had been skewed by darkness from the testing breadth of the dim. But now that understanding has entered my mind to reveal a focus of light, things have come into sight.

I had just finished tying my shoes while sitting at the edge of my bed. I went to stand up during this adjustment period and my equilibrium suddenly left me. I found myself falling full force forward with no balance. There was only the sight of a corner of a table I was heading for in the hallway outside my open door. Looking back over this incident, I tell you that my guardian angel was not asleep. For at the last moment, I veered from the corner of the table with my mindful eye passing it by in scraping carpet burn tumble upon the floor. Though I didn't mind the pain, for I was grateful to be alive.

I knew that there was no way I was going to miss the corner of that table I was heading for, but by the miracle of a divine intervention I am still here to tell the tale.

Why Confusion is Not Normal

In God's kingdom of light there is full understanding and sight without confusion where focus gradually lines up within His country. Each time we're in it, a learning to remain takes place as its eternal properties become just as enjoyable on earth as it is in heaven. Then moving into our glorified bodies in the stages of saved, being saved, and will be saved while in the world and no longer of it, more spiritual understanding comes. This is why I would say that all of dark matter is held in place by the brilliant power of the essence of starlight. For there are no deviations to the truth of having a continual constant, and here within the light of the stars a real firm foundation of stability is formed as all is held together.

Although at first glance it might appear that within the veil of the night sky it is darkness that prevails, I have come to learn that it is really the density of pure light that holds the deeper truth. As it displaces all with its greater weight of substance, like tacks on a bulletin board, all is held in place. I draw this conclusion by seeing this from within my mind's eye. There are only sparks of discovery inside of light, all else detracts within the darkness of confusion as it has no sustaining of life. Like lightning fast spirits of the dark that fogs a brain or by the greater Spirit of truth in light, suggestions are sparking forth inside to choose to do mindfully wrong or right. Thoughts are always being delivered and all is held together when concentrating with focus. For in the light we can clearly see without varying degrees and this brings peace to perceive everything while at rest outside of motion. Otherwise, all is commotion and within this dim, there is low to no intellect in winds of darkness.

Everything at rest was the way it was meant to be in the beginning before the first man departed from the Spirit of the light and life of all truth within the density of all. For as dragons of darkness in other minds gone dim try to keep us locked away in strongholds, any retaliation on our parts invites living in a kingdom of anxiety. By our own strength, we are found incomplete where everything distracts us from calling on God. Yet a way was made by God to restore us to His kingdom, which I have experienced myself through my own salvation.

Peace was established to embrace His love by the joy set before Him, which was to give us His living blood to renew our minds to know Him within the stillness of His presence. For by completing the spiritual circle that once was broken to prevent eternal life, passing through time and space is now possible again. Now coming down to earth and departing back up into heaven through stages of growth, all can come to fruition.

Starting with His baptism which led to His resurrection, this first step came forth as He met with His eternal Father in the Jordan River who said, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." With this first step, confusion of the dark started to become a thing of the past. "He grew as a tender root out of dry ground," which led to the cross where Jesus died to be placed in a tomb to ascend into heaven by resurrection Himself. Unless this tree dies, its seed cannot fall into the ground of our soil within time and be planted in us as soil to die, come alive, and reproduce after its own kind.

When Jesus said, “The hour has come for the son of man to be glorified. Amen, amen, I say to you unless a grain of wheat dies and falls to the ground and dies it remains just a grain of wheat, but if it dies it produces much fruit. Whoever loves His life loses it and whoever hates his life in this world shall preserve it for eternal life. Whoever serves me must follow me and wherever I am there also will my servant be. The Father will honor whoever serves me.” Jesus is the first eternal seed to bring completion to us in this incomplete world. His fruit, from Him being the tree of life, gave us His seed. “I am troubled now. Yet what should I say, ‘Father save me from this hour?’ But it was for this purpose I came to this hour. Father glorify Your name.” Then a voice came from heaven from the Father: “I have glorified it and will glorify it again.”

Yes, through the Eucharist that bears eternity and cracks open time, the perfection of His still and firm foundation has been established from before the earth was formed. God’s New Regenerative Covenant testifies of this by His word, “God is the same yesterday, today, and forevermore.” For Jesus has established this with His disciples where all scripture testifies of the root source of its essence.

“Behold the Lamb who was and is, and is to come, slain from the foundations of the world.” He is now still here on earth and there in heaven, piercing the darkness between eternity and time as the mature grain and door held open in His full progression of growth as seen in brilliance at all times by those who have been gifted to be led of the leader and guider into all truth, the Holy Spirit. Acknowledging that He has come, and is, and is to come to keep His promise, by completing His return and fulfilling His word, all is fulfilled. He closes the final circle of His nature. He gathers up His sheep that are willing to follow as opposed to the goats who would not do so, refusing to believe what He has said which was meant for an embrace of His love to be deeply rooted and grounded within.

Jesus said of the voice from His Father after being baptized, “This voice came not for my sake but for yours. Now is the time of judgment on this world. Now the ruler of this world will be driven out and when I am lifted up from the earth, I will draw all men unto myself.”

No, confusion is not normal to those who walk in the light, “The light will be among you only a little while longer. Walk while you have the light so that darkness will not overcome you. Whoever walks in the dark does not know where he is going. While you have the light, believe in the light, so that you may become children of the light.” See God and learn of Him too, one step at a time. His way is easy and burden light, “Study to show yourself approved.”

Finding Sanity

“If you search for me with all your heart you will find me.” Not your mind, but heart. For when our storm of pride is out of the way, our hearts open to receive the seed of God’s love which blossoms, opening from the fruit of truth within it.

For me to find sanity was something that happened in varying degrees of stages of growth. First, I had to learn that there was something greater than myself that I needed to trust in as I had come to realize that I did not create myself. It took awhile, but after becoming comfortable with this concept, I was ready for my next stage of growth.

Secondly, there are spiritual differences between a Holy Spirit of light, which we receive through baptism into the kingdom of God that is above all other spirits. These other spirits live in the dark and we are susceptible to them if we do not grow into the light to leave what lives in any darkness where we were once owned by the devil till grafted to Christ.

Third, I understood that we grow spiritually likened unto the stages of all plants in creation. You do not just drop a seed in the ground and watch it pop up and bear you a fruit. Line upon line and precept upon precept is how we grow in our relationship with God.

Fourth, I came to understand that because time moves forward in the motion of larger waves than the length of the breadth while remaining connected to its seconds, we do not find freedom. For within this nearly flat distorted dimension that passes through all heights and depths of time, we remain shaky as it is only a testing ground. We need to be stilled in each stage of our growth in order to grow in eternal life. For what rises up from out of the depth of time's abyss enters us. These spirits that push on our emotions rise within us in the trial of irritations and without the protection of baptism we quickly find ourselves drained by the fire of them.

Demonic spirits press on our thoughts to take them captive in the heights of time in a light that deceives to have their way with us in the commotion of chaos. This is where perseverance equates to slowing down to catch up with God according to Him, "Be still and know that I Am God." For in slowing down, we experience discomforts while growing in each stage of our progression of growth.

Now passing through the door, which Jesus opened for us, by cutting through the depth of the abyss to meet with roots that are grounded in love, hatred steps aside. Then sound on the firm foundation of Christ, we enter into eternity in depth and back up through the heights by His resurrection where the devil is cast out. Time's dim light is cleanly pierced by the stillness of His greater love, more than the unbalance of all other elements that surround us. God opens up the brilliance of faith within the dark by the friction of coming out from time's sequences of usual routine with the presence of the warmth of affection within Him. For in Him lay the properties of a full substance of life with focus.

We follow in his steps through this door of holiness by grace, beyond where there is a heat that burns us through the intensity of all fiery trials. Now ignited to light through slowing down to face the winds of darkness, we explode outwardly from inside our souls unto eternal light. For when not turning from our faith by the light and life of all men through Jesus Christ, we are ushered into His still presence within each stage of our growth. We are on an upward climb out from the valley of the shadow of death and as long as our eyes are lifted above the hills, there is no reason to fear what evil would suggest.

Fifth, I realized that all of our character flaws from missing God's presence due to sin always causes a darkness for bad thoughts to enter in. This is where minion spirits do not come to light in the lapses of focus from broken concentration within our minds. Yet, once having come to light from out of the dark, they become burned away on request and replaced with the deeper meaning of God's true perfection of light and love.

Sixth, all is discovered and known by more of the life that He gives with each encounter with Him, eternal life becomes greater in value. For by focusing day by day on the peace He brings, which surpasses all understanding, now our hearts are guarded into a mindful stillness of His persistent present light.

Seventh, when God is greater than all else, nothing really matters anymore as I realize that everything about me matters to Him. In this place, it gives me the peace of a Sabbath rest that I can rest in. For God rested on the seventh day of creation as a failsafe sign for us. Flipping on like a switch, all becomes revealed on how to put back on the light that connects us to His peace. As clothing us in His Holy Spirit, we are completed by Him closing the circuit for His regenerative blood to flow through us again with resurrection power. Our minds are renewed with eternal life by an extinguished night that brilliantly shines by God's light.

We are now finally out of Satan's clutches as we have learned to walk in the light. For this is what happens when the mind turns brilliant by remaining with Him to walk in His light. For in case we are ever seduced into darkness outside of the shabbat shalom moment of His stillness of being in tandem with His life, there is sight to call out to Him. The mind can be prevented from going dim to lose our sight by the holding restraints of God's love. There is now a recognizable choice for God's sanity as we no longer prefer darkness when looking into His ever present light.

Patterns

We all have patterns in our lives that have been established throughout our years, woven like nets by forces of darkness that imprison us in our thoughts. Many of us find ourselves limited by them where in the weave of a net, we experience becoming trapped in a blanket that seems to smother and lashing out in anger becomes common practice.

The more we resist in prideful strength, the more we feed into their threads of darkness. Then given more energy to overwhelm us, we are kept imprisoned within ourselves, even to the point of becoming limited till without sight implosion occurs. Finally we are forced out until there is a death inside ourselves through possession. Herein lies a hellish depression. For when complete prisoners of what lives in our souls, buried in darkness and blind to them in the realm of time, we do not really exist but only the entities within. This dark place is where the fear of anxiety takes the place of faith and when these fears are removed, we are no longer threatened by death because set free in wisdom's light, we're alive in Christ on request.

“Shall we separate the tares from the wheat?” Jesus' response to this parable was, “No let it alone lest we destroy the wheat. At the end of the harvest, we shall separate the tares from the wheat where it will be burned in the fire,” suggesting it must be a work of God.

We have weapons of light by baptism through water and enter a completion, available to us by being led into the truth of the cleansing blood walk of Jesus Christ that restores us to life. God removes and even prevents further darkness from advancing until we are delivered by a focus that recognizes only Him. Eternal light comes from an eternal word which opens to us by the door of God's regenerative blood through prayer when in tune with His Holy Spirit. This is why the scriptures say, "Faith comes by hearing and hearing comes by the word of God," and becoming knowledgeable, wisdom teaches us how to train and correctly apply such knowledge to our lives.

Knowledge applied correctly to our lives sparks faith. We learn how to do this while walking in the light of eternal life. Christ's bloodline of life, by the Holy Spirit, pierces any darkness that blocked us from starting to comprehend God's mind by explosions of revelation through resurrection power.

Pride keeps us from remaining teachable as knowledge without understanding love puffs us up to believe we know better than God which destroys rather than edifies. Ideas that puff up, dims, and blocks a mind from God's wisdom, leaving us stranded without growth inside.

Misinterpreted truth does not pierce darkness to allow us to overcome our limitations, but adds to them over time. A good question to ask is, "How does one rightly divide the word of truth from God?" If it pampers the flesh as to increase darkness by allowing you to remain comfortable in missing The God of the root of Abraham in your life by known sin, His Word will not go down between the joint and the marrow and bring light. No, it will not effectively renew with the cure of His living blood, but instead only distract with a temporary fix. A lesser spirit of pharmakeia which only lasts for a season will do this.

The flesh would have you return to just surviving, as itching ears within time do not feed the hunger of the emotionally bleeding scratches of sin. The itch of spiritual cravings can never be satisfied by trying to meet them through desires of fleshly intellect either. All souls have a spiritual hunger that only what eternal life has can satisfy.

So lest the word of God is seen to draw from the New Covenant sacrifice of His regenerative blood, there'll be no restraints by the power of light to see His love. Though once rooted and grounded in the love of Christ, we're not only allowed to experience His resurrection power, but taste more of knowing His full goodness. He promises a glorified body when you die, but until then eternal life is happening by His blood when born into His kingdom. For those who do not comprehend this, it only remains a promise of a future time to come. No, you will not comprehend the stitch work of God's eternal hand joining you to Himself. Our Lord's threads will only be preserved, keeping His pattern to partake of in heaven instead of knowing Him now in eternal life while down here on earth. For a deception masks all into believing, you have to wait for it when our Lord's prayer says, "Thy kingdom come, thine will be done on earth as it is in heaven."

Now is the kingdom of heaven at hand and the prince of the darkness of this world cast out for us to walk in the light of eternal life. Here is where we can be freed from the dissatisfaction of being unfulfilled and escape this hell of all undesirable spiritual cravings. For spirits that destroy our flesh within the releasing of energy from our living souls can be cut off from bleeding us dry like leeches. For God is there to meet our needs with His greater Spirit of love. Yet not if the words of God do not draw from the new covenant of Blood, for we shall wrestle the scriptures to our own destruction unless they are interpreted to draw from the root of the new covenant. Truth that stagnates and does not allow you to grow in God's Kingdom is a well constructed lie. God's living blood is on earth as it is in heaven, available at the marriage supper of the lambs table right now, because His resurrection opens the way for growth.

The pattern of the gift of God is eternal life, but the wages of sin allows for loose threads as without a loving cohesive bond with Him in life, all equates to death. So, let not any believe they shall receive of eternal life while down here on earth while trying to hold onto what the world and heaven have to offer simultaneously. "Whoever wishes to come after me must deny himself, take up his cross, and follow me." In the passing ripples of time where there is nothing to hold onto in vices that further cause anxiety, life lacks self-control. Eternity cannot be reached when there is no foundation of virtuous truth to build on while in distortion.

It is God's job to judge the living from the dead between those who continue to be in the commotion of motion having no bond with His stability and those who are joined by the restraints of love within it. His established word, drawing from the bloodline of His living sacrifice, allows all to receive eternal life and this is the measuring line between darkness and light. So, if the bloodline never knew eternal life in the first place, like that of a double-minded man who is unstable in all his ways, there has been a great deception in a well constructed framework of a lie. One returns to the darkness of what this world has to offer when unaware they are being lied to, they are like dogs which return to their vomit as "A people perish for lack of vision."

"For the wages of sin are death, but the gift of God eternal life." The gift of God which surpasses all our understanding will only guard our hearts and minds when shod in His unmovable peace while remaining with Him. As a reminder, the scriptures say, "We are in this world and no longer of it."

Those who rightly divide the word of truth according to the Holy Spirit know that there is no life in the word of God unless it draws from the root of regenerative blood. Their meaning must line up or they will end up void of eternal truth while here on earth. When Peter's shadow crossed over a man, he was healed. Partaking of what the world has to offer, the riches of greedy gain, fame, or the lust of the eye from the pride of life in the end does not produce eternal life. Without God, everyone returns to their own devices and this is not the way to encounter His full presence. Jesus said to the Pharisees, “You search the scriptures because you believe that in them there is life, but they point to me.” For the Pharisees anticipated receiving life from the scriptures, but all along they pointed to the root of the word of the essence of their pattern in the living bloodline of “The Christ,” where all can draw eternal life from through His sacrifice.

“It is better to have never known the truth of Christ than to turn back again.” For without the lifestyle of a holy servitude out of love in a relationship with God on earth as it is in heaven, I do not see how one could enjoy being in the presence of a Holy Lord. For how could one enjoy the kingdom of both a High King and Priest, after being delivered from Satan’s kingdom while still living like they’re married to this fallen angel’s character? “There are no variables in truth,” so I find those to live to please their flesh or find pleasure by living within the world’s system as being ambiguous in their relationship with Jesus, “For can a fig tree bear olive berries,” or “This people honor me with their mouths, but their hearts are far from me.” Remember that Jesus did not say of Zacchaeus that, “Today salvation has come unto this house,” until after he had offered to pay back the money he stole from his people. For this is what proved his attitude of character to have changed from vice to virtue within his heart while in God’s presence. Though when Abraham was going to sacrifice his son to prove his loyalty to the Lord, God sent an angel to prevent this from happening to continue His intervention by grace.

God has instructed me that after Abraham proved himself by intending to honor His request to sacrifice His son to continue walking with Him, it was enough to keep His promise. The dispensation of His grace was deepened by God providing another sacrifice to replace the offering of his son. The Lord's act of mercy was justified as valid to increase his faith in a continuance of grace as a sign for what was to come for us all.

If we wound someone's feelings, an apology is in order when it will not further injure the other party. If a conscience is still violated when amends cannot be made, then a confession to a priest is in order to not negate God's dispensation of grace for healing to transpire by His own blood. "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us." Receiving an apology perpetuates God's mercy and grace as an act of opportunity to follow in the footsteps of Jesus first through prayer and then by the actions of what the Lord would have us to do to remind us of His gentle manner. "For Christ is just and able to forgive us our sins and cleanse us of all unrighteousness." A conversion of heart and lifestyle is proof of God moving the devil out.

A word to the wise, "All of our boasting is to be in the Lord." This means what He has done for us and not us for Him. For when Jesus was instructing His Apostles about not sitting at the place of honor He was referring to "Let another man praise you." Let the master of ceremonies invite you to sit at the place of honor by giving his consent to progressively change chairs through an invitation of you to draw closer to Him by means of understanding His virtues. For as God praises you through the compliments of others as to, “Give credit where credit is due.” This is where you can recognize the essence of your pattern is becoming altered and more conformed to the image of Christ. “Be not conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind,” and herein lie knowing that you are being tailored with the mind of Christ to receive His crown of life.

Unraveling a Pattern

I grew up with a passive father and aggressively demanding angry mother and at times I can see myself switching back and forth between their two roles. In unraveling patterns, learned throughout our lives, God wants to take one from belonging to this world's system to being in it but no longer of it. This happens when you grow out from being in the pattern of a self-center where the world revolves around you till embracing servitude to God and others. By the free gift of God's merciful grace, our hearts are changed to enjoy the presence of His love more than anything else. Learning about ones vices takes patient time, thank God for the gentleness of His virtuous life.

My mother's bullish mannerisms were definitely the more dominant presence in the influence of the home. Due to her unknown persistence of anger from childhood, which gradually manifested, the rest of the family took on passive roles. That was until one day in my jaded past of drug dealing, my china shop sensitive passive heart needed protecting. Out came the spirit of my angry mother in a stairwell on a deal gone bad. My teeth clicked in an arm to get out of a stranglehold before throwing my attacker down a flight of stairs. The other taller assailant ran for his life. I am still stuck in this flawed pattern that Jesus is gradually transforming me out of unto this day. Though, once realizing what hides in the dark, focusing reveals God's light. This is half the battle in learning how to love yourself in an esteeming way before the Lord who first loved you.

Understanding your origin helps to make room for more of God in your life by forgiveness of resentments. Realize that your parents, peers, and friends while growing from seed to fruition came out of the same confusion of darkness that you were just in. For everybody did the best that they could do while struggling through the darkness of the dim, trying to fend for you while in a growth process of their own turmoil. It is hard for the inner craft of God's healing to take place in the midst of scrambling in environments that everyone else deems as normal while the Lord is saying, "Be still and know that I am God."

In the midst of all the dark commotion, His still and quiet presence can very easily be overlooked until pride subsides. A voice of humility needs to kick in to match God's call till saying, "Help me, God." I learned that this wisdom always allows for a better future.

Focus for healing takes place when looking to the light that shines outside of darkness and then beyond. We are prevented from knowing the truth till birth, much like how a baby chick pecks its way out from the darkness of its shell. Now when dark thoughts come to envelop me with fiery trials, they are broken through by the sword of God's word of truth. I cut down these trials in the freedom of knowing that my redeemer lives and fights for my faith. Don't get distracted, prepare, and know that hardships are coming. I cry out for God's strength to perfect me in my weaknesses as a pathway to peace while on a journey to understand His mercy.

In unraveling a pattern, you don't know what you didn't know until you know it. Grieving over all the darkness that took place in your life and all great loss, you can finally embrace the totality of your emotions and rejoice within the light of life. Ultimately, patterns become unraveled by intimate persevering requests of prayer till virtues of His nature becomes our own by grace.

Joy

There is joy unspeakable and full of glory when God's presence is there to embrace the embodiment of understanding in a full essence of Spirit which guides to Jesus in the power of the blood of His name. For Jesus Christ is the "Name" above all names. His name has encompassed the all of everything through the proof of His resurrection. His word, found in the essence of His being, is a powerful testimony which brings all to light out of darkness as incompleteness could not hold the perfection of Christ in His form of being complete.

A happy, joyous heart allows for a sound mind. A heart differed has only the depression of a despairing heart as when unstable, all is off-balance from the norm. I get joy when I consider what God has done for me. I get joy, for through the power of God's regenerative living blood, having been redeemed, I am freed from death to live in eternity with Him. "For the dead in Christ shall rise again."

I am found in His light and cleave to Him while passing through time's dark motions, breaking free of the spiritual dragons within its realm in each stage of growth. I have been guided to slow down from time's atmosphere as well where I pass through friction, heat, and fire during my stages of growth that have sparked forth my faith to bear fruit. Now in the uncertainties of a dark world, I am being pulled out through Him translating me into His joyful kingdom of heaven while on earth. For He has quieted me in eternal life by taking me through His door while in still moments with Him where once I was buried within this realm of time. Yes, my heart of stone has been pricked and God's seed of love has been planted to refashion it. It is now of a pliable flesh to be shaped into His mold of virtue by Him. Yes, I have chosen to let God do this of my own free will and it is marvelous in my eyes.

Now that I am in His spiritual lifeboat of the kingdom of heaven while here on earth, I am in a world with all its desires of the flesh, but no longer of them. Jesus steers me to pull others into the boat while traveling through the world together. At times when I accidentally lose sight of Him, fall overboard during the journey so to speak, I sing out the sacrifices of praise and thanksgiving. In this way, Jesus can recognize my spark of light in the face of dark adversity, for He has remembered His promises to me. Bearing my burdens with His love by sending other members of His body of believers to help me back into the boat through the encouragement of His Spirit, God uses His body to increase our faith.

However, during my times of discouragement, when not cautious, I can lose my vision of His light while helping others. Finding myself distracted, it is time to sing out to the Lord. By God's mercy, He sends the Holy Spirit to comfort me when taking matters into my own hands, for when pride enters in I should become overwhelmed. Yet, "As one plants, another waters, and God gives the increase." If I truly trust Him to bring in the harvest, His sparkle of joyous light remains in my eyes, while hearing, "Enter thou into the joy of the Lord," perpetually. Otherwise, I can run the risk of burning out by giving my oils of gladness away out of compulsion as when I finding myself outside of God's kingdom, I experience a loss peace. For if I am not following the protocol of God by walking in the Spirit, all ends up in a self righteous pride which feeds the lusts of my flesh, revolving around me, as my garment of works becomes as a filthy rag before Him. Here, I then run the risk of hearing, "Depart from me you worker of iniquity, you never knew me," instead. I must truly trust in God to bring everything to pass or find myself overwhelmed by losing the joy of His kingdom where things get pretty dark without the wisdom of His light. I can tell this is happening when not abiding in His vine, for I dry up spiritually and get thirsty until His grace returns me to my place.

Without the Holy Spirit fruit of joy being my strength along with gratitude, there are spirits that offer baffling addictions which cause me to remain in the dark. For when a spirit gets beneath the armor of my relationship with God, it causes me a loss of sight in a blind spot where dragons hide within this darkness. Perspective only comes from having complete peace with God, for there is no lack of light here. I am learning even now that this exposes all that hides in the dark.

I see that it is a necessity to ask God to remove the entity lap dogs which drain me of my energy as they have caused me painful burdens of shame that condemn to keep me from going to Him. For as He is stronger than me to call on in their face, He would be able to deliver me by His intensive light of truth within the full power of Jesus name. There have been painful long-sufferings in my struggles with emotions where spirits rose up from the abyss in time to surpass the gate of my mouth that I remain as dumb. My thoughts were crowded out within my mind, their upheavals suppressed what took place on the inside my brain till when pressed against each other all my vision grew dark.

They do not want to be seen within the brilliant light for us to see and speak them out by calling on God in full expression. For if they were to come into sight, they'd be forced to leave at God's command. Until this happens, my thoughts shall be filled with compressed vices in a scrambled mess which will blot out the light of my love where God is the greatest truth. I have heard that idol hands are the devils playground. Areas that lack discipline in my life are like loose threads which can unravel me and while there are any open spaces, demons can comfortably rest inside my darkness to possess me. When missing opportunities to cry out in prayer, it is because God is missing in my life to meet my need.

Thrown off balance in the my handbreadth by being unable to speak light and life, due to my pride, I incur a death. This then removes my faith by what has risen from the abyss to blanket my thoughts and emotions which keeps them from coming together in the balance of God's light. I pick up what further harms my flesh with a perpetual reach, releasing energy when I stray from the stability of what God's life has to offer. Now instead, I become pressed against the heights of time while embracing the angel of darkness disguised as light which prevents a perpetual embrace of eternal life.

Yes, without the full seal of the fruits from the Holy Spirit of God where He places His armor on me, there'll be no full growth into a mature relationship with Him. For without full virtue, there is always room for a breach in the armor of my relationship with God. I see now that one only remains connected to His vine while growing in faith as complacency is not our friend but only makes pretend. Our Lord goes missing in action when not found to call on when confronted by other spirits. For without the full virtuous fruits of His Spirit, my character traits become defective. When lacking His virtues, there are places for dark spiritual forces to invade and overtake as to drain me of energy while not having sight. All energy that sustains me from connecting to God becomes siphoned off, which can happen due to any imbalance when I do not walk in eternal life while here on earth as it is in heaven. //////////////////////////////////////

I need the Holy Spirit of the paraclete to comfort, protect, and counsel me in a bond of love with God as there is no Sabbath rest to keep me in the moment without Him, if not. Outside the Holy Spirit of His presence, I stink to high heaven by becoming chaotic and compulsive. For with our patience lost, we as branches wither to become ineffective on the vine of Christ. For when leaving the flame of my love to return to dimness of light, people do not see the true emotional colors of full eternal life. No, I do not shine very bright while losing sight of God to call on when thrown off balance.

For every action there is an equal and opposite reaction as whenever a fruit is not maintained on the vine of God with faith of unceasing prayer, our focus dissipates and while rotting to a sour flavor we become ineffective. Love turns to hate, peace to chaos, and gratitude to ingratitude rather quickly, which people shy away from. When losing focus on the vine of eternal life while here on earth in time, my joy turns to despair and I am left without the flavor of it on earth as it is in heaven. Afterward, I find myself alone as no one likes a rotten fruit, except for children of sin who roam the night. For it is by the acceptance of God's mercy which patiently waits with a love that is everlasting, all find it easy to draw near. Though, there are still those who will choose to breathe their last breath in preference to darkness over the light of His life.

Other fruits of the Spirit are kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control and against such things there are no laws that would bind us to anything that lives in the dark within the realm of time.

A word of advice: If you see a rotten fruit, do not try to fix it when it is connected to the branch of God's vine, though do bring it to His attention through the conversation of prayer. For when God brings restoration to His vine by faith, your relationship with Him gets stronger. More budding blossoms will then appear on the branch of even your own for an even greater joy.

Pain is an indicator that something is wrong, but if conditioned overtime to deny its existence, then one lives in a life of denial where a darkness moves into cloud, replacing all truth with lies. Things that mask over pain does not allow you to solve the problem of your emotional bruises to heal. The existence of your true persona of what one was created to be becomes ignored and here in the silence of a soul, spirits of addiction move in to take control. We all now live in a world where we pick up addictions to escape the pain of being digested by the system we are in. The myth of self control feeds our flesh and everything that is connected to it. Minion spirits become stronger as they lie to us in the dark, escaping our sight. Here, God's gentle Spirit, which otherwise would give the gift of self control becomes overlooked. These dragon spirits get a meal from our energy that reaches out for answers and finds none. This is where we experience uncomfortable comfort zones while grasping hold of thin air to escape the pain we're in but always remain numb.

You may ask, "How is this done?" Overrun and pulverized in our youth, we get stampeded over by spirits. They live in others and until we become invaded enough to be sparked to anger, while numb in an unknown confusion, we have our emotional energies siphoned away. This is where other emotions of sadness and gladness throw us off balance emotionally to misinterpret love. A new normal becomes established here by deception. For when vulnerability does not seem safe as to not be nurtured and cared for under boundaries with the proper protection of love, fighting back to protect ourselves keeps us numbs with an unnatural spirit of anger. This puts out the lights of our self-actualization as we're led to believe that life is too painful to live. It further depresses us into a dark prison of suppression as we implode within ourselves in a perpetual cycle that is incomprehensible for us to understand in the dimness of a mind going darker. The illusion of life in the world is not as attractive as once thought.

We embrace the lie of this pain and release our energies towards deception while believing love to be a pattern of abuse, perpetuated by what seems normal as we observe everybody else in similar patterns around us. Knowing not, those who cared for us in our youth were spiritually ignorant as they only blindly provided for our physical essentials, leaving us to fend spiritually and emotionally for ourselves.

There are angry patterns of abuse in the spiritual cycles that we learn and pass onto our own family circles that ripple out to affect everyone around us. Me carrying around a reservoir of rage and not being able to bond in a healthy loving spiritual way with my daughter has created a pattern for her of mistrust in men. The dragons that hide in the dark in spiritual divisiveness, by their cunning, infiltrate our minds and emotions to speak through us when in broken distortions. They feed off the reactions of us acting out emotionally which overrides our thoughts and for a lack of understanding all hell breaks loose. An open door to the demonic offers others who unsuspectingly go along with what appears to be a temporary relief, but over a period of time these dragon addictions can grow to take complete control.

In a society where a people perish from a lack of vision of a loving God, “The simple pass on in the dark and get punished.” We further carry on this pattern in our relationships with others without any awareness of what is going on.

Wherever numb in our uncomfortably comfortable lives, as this is our normal, rebellion is sparked to further drain us. We struggle to survive in a spiritual world filled with unseen dragons. They feed off our pain and instead of us, they’re the ones that really thrive in this position. For when the affection of God goes missing in our lives, our defender is not there to protect us as when we trust in ourselves, we are really relying on a spiritual god of pride. Without hope, we remain in the dark and believe what is calling us to a place of unrest is normal. This is where the Spirit of truth which comes from the light of God is nonexistent. Yet if we persevere to dismiss this lie, eventually God’s love shows up to embrace us as we are warmed to an understanding which brings His light into our lives.

Loving ourselves gives us self esteem and should never be confused with a selfishness that causes us to miss love for personal gain. For more darkness always invites itself to come with an anxiety of what wants to remain unseen to bring unhappiness to our lives with it. Yet, if we do not do something special to pamper ourselves from time to time, we can forget that the Lord loves to spend time with us. Jesus even suggests, "Come away with me to a quiet place for a while that you will find rest for your souls." Peace with God allows us to know who we are as, "We love because God first loved us." For we are not to be drunk with the spirits of this world, the flesh, or the devil, but be filled with the Holy Spirit of truth which comes from God to return His affections. Jesus did this in a relationship with the Father of all light in the completion of a flow of love as the guide to the truth of what it is to be normal.

When there is a healthy exchange between us and God, our hearts and minds come together. Light is sparked to come from our lips and watching how others respond to us gives us perspective. How we reflect God's image in a harmony of wisdom reveals walking while with Him, ourselves, and others. So, "Seek peace and pursue it." For when the soul is aligned properly, it is filled with the heavenly Joy of eternal life on the earth as it is in heaven till we move entirely into glory. The world becomes a gloomy place rather quickly if we do not walk in the joy of the light as He is in the truth of light. For darkness invites spiritual dragons to invade our mind to be led into emotional bruises without the protection of God's fire of love to guide us after being baptized.

Now to answer the big question of, "How do we heal from being numb and get God's fire of love to replace being stuck without full feelings?"

First we need to have our emotional knots unbound, for this is where dark areas of our lives leave us missing in action, not allowing us to see what is invading our space in the gaping holes of our lives that are missing. These areas gradually come to light as we grow in our relationship with God, so that we may ask Him to heal us till our numbness is removed. For those who do not know, baptism leads to enjoying eternal life while here on earth as it is in heaven. For it is stated in the scriptures, Peter dropped everything to follow Jesus upon meeting Him as everything happens for a reason.

I was overrun in my youth. There was no nurturing from my mother and no guidance from my father. I came from a well to do home where nanny's took care of me to their convenience. Strapped in a stroller to keep me clean while watching other children play made it easier for them. Having no interaction with others kept me in the dark about everything in life. I guess this is how I learned to be an observer as without having any social structure to understand boundaries, I could only watch others without interaction.

One day, I found myself let out of the stroller and placed in a strange ladies lap at age 5. I pulled away because it made me feel uncomfortable. My world was being intruded on, then she told me that she was my mother. Yet, I didn't know her and when she tried to give me a hug I pulled away all the more. My father was always busy working and I rarely saw him. Didn't have grandparents around either, so welcome to my world of fending for myself while trying to make heads or tails of what life was all about. I never knew I had a voice and had very little interactions with others. Perhaps when I was dropped off in a primitive daycare nursery as an infant by the strange lady who was my mother, being handed over to a lady who smiled like a crocodile was a bit much. For, after being dropped off to her kind gestures, I was quickly placed in a crib and left to fend for myself. I cried until I realized the futility of it and then I cried no more.

On return from a trip that my parents took together, I was discovered to be suffering from dehydration and had to be put in an incubator in a hospital until rehydrated over a long period of time. There were many other stages of my life where I received no nurturing from physical touch, leaving me with no bonding love to discern who was friend or who was foe.

In addition, not knowing what a bond of love was, I was unable to respect or love others as I did not know what the affection of love was for myself. This left me open without boundaries to have others run me over at the center of my being with unrecognizable attacks, I was left without knowing how to defend myself emotionally and I learned to trust no one during this process. First, I had to discover a better way than rage to defend myself, for outside of getting angry I did not know how to keep abusive people away.

Secondly, I discovered that I had unhealthy boundaries. Anger was a real problem as I used it as a wall to fend off abuse from others who disrespected my personal space and I often found myself out of control. A foothold of rage became an explosive stronghold in expressing myself, and my emotions of anger crowded out all other thoughts preventing me from seeing with focus. I fed into what was draining me of my energy and I slowly died within from having a spiritual cancer which numbed me from the outside in. I was further detached from having unbalanced emotions and thoughts which prevented me from seeing the light of truth, which could bring them together for me to heal and have full feelings.

Third, I gradually noticed over the course of many years that my emotions were off balance. Joy and sorrow were non-existent from spiritual rage monsters that occupied both my heart and mind. They stepped in between the areas of where the stitch work of my feelings were divided by stress till I was overwhelmed. My separated thoughts and emotions that were originally sewn a little bit together by God in my youth, even these became torn. They went dark from being bent out of shape by the many tearing pressures I knew not to turn over to Him. In scattered and tattered patterns of unhealthy living, which became unmanageable for me, I recognized I had to learn to turn them over to God. If I didn't, spirits would have their way with me at their whim as I did not have the restraints of God's love to give me self control. Dragons moved into my mind, possessing my soul by taking control. As emotions of anger were used in defending myself so much, I repeated the abuse through stuffing myself with food and other drugs of choice. Although this made me feel better within deceptions of flavors to make life taste better than dying inside, the death that was killing me remained unseen.

Fourth, I became frustrated to say the least and feeding my belly of darkness became my god with a driving force of anxiety in my life while unaware. An established pattern that would lock all else out to the point of imprisoning myself became the norm. For no one wanted to be around an angry person when they could choose to be with others who knew the real God who was gentle, kind, and loving. God could not tolerate the spiritual hatred which was living in my soul either. I thank Him for the mercy of His blood as I had affections towards other spirits that I was blind to seeing until acknowledging it. For how could He move in to have a full relationship with me when there was another spirit living there that was taking His place? Being angry had taken its toll, but by His grace it was prevented from taking complete control.

Fifth, getting a glimpse of my pride by God's light allowed me to see what gradually hid in the dark. Now overwhelmed by what revolved around me, a pinhole of light came through His brilliance of love and I was shown the anger that had its hold.

Sixth, love revealed to me the form of a new boundary that was needed to protect myself. This gave me a peace that was beyond my understanding, which allowed me to guard my heart and mind while in the process of healing.

Seventh, I could sense what distracted me from having light of full faith and what had me bound while peace was not present in my life. This was made known to me by Jehovah Kannah, the aspect of God that states within His character, "My God is a Jealous God" as He is the lover of my soul. I realize now that I departed from Him during these times that I committed spiritual adultery with what beheld my eyes that at one time was so easy to justify. Other spirits that occupied my time during these moments left me outside of eternity and the life the Lord offers.

Though He has painfully forgiven me due to my ignorance since, for when missing while lacking in understanding at least I was able to remember to call on Him each time and more. Remembering thoughts within a “me center” I know that I looked to have the needs of my flesh met. This neglected the needs of my spiritual ones that could only be met by enjoying the love of Christ within the restraints of His love till my life was fully centered around him and this is where I began acquiring His virtues.

I am learning not to just take things for granted as everything is a gift for a full life. All of feelings, which get damaged, only God can put back together. Asking Him to do so in each area of our lives is the key to coming alive. He must be discovered in truth as He is the light and life of all men. Emotions and thoughts need to be stitched back together in the light of His thread, for we remain damaged till joined to full feelings in the weave of God’s seed of life. Otherwise, prideful presumptuous assumptions will be made within the dark and prevent me from embracing God’s love to heal in the thaw of His warmth. His gentle refashioning light, which actually balances out our emotions and thoughts, cohesively heals while coming out of the dark by the filling of His fervent mending love.

In the cycle of “we love because God first loved us,” I must remain teachable by retaining nothing in the mind of flesh, which is at war with Christ’s mind. For only the Holy Spirit allows the blood of His love to freely flow interchangeably between us in an exchange of gratitude. This happens while taking every thought captive under the subjection of Jesus Christ, when the mind of flesh does not get in the way. For it is the Spirit that leads and guides into all truth, I find myself learning about the God of heaven and earth perpetually. It has been happening in the vastness of a sea of information that is incomprehensible while seeking peace with God.

The mind of flesh anxiously teaches us about fleshly things and that of the Spirit how to trust in spiritual things. So, I must not let the flesh block me from further learning about Him. For Eternal life only enters the mind by Christ. He keeps me in the joy of the Lord and my sanity stable or the darkness of sin inside the mind of flesh, which is dark and dying will stunt my growth, preventing a full renewal of heavenly light from beyond by God.

A fleshly mind looks to survive on its own as it does not seek to trust God to provide answers by the Holy Spirit. For bringing things to pass while in the darkness of a sight of flesh, it is known that all dies. Yet, the gift of God is eternal life and everyone who understands this walks hand in hand with Him to thrive. For while seated in each heavenly plateau while climbing the mountain of wisdom, given from the knowledge of God, we are fed the light of eternal life. The kingdom of heaven has come as it is within us when we invite Him in. His peaceful path continues to renew our minds by the restraints of seeking His love and this keeps us in holiness as we are granted permission to climb from glory to glory.

Now we are each different parts of the body of Christ and when brought together there is a greater pool of information to exchange ideas from each other. Love knows how to be patient with one another for an exchange of information in an order which allows us to have a deeper relationship with God. It is rude to impose ideas on others that are fleshly, for what is contrary to the Holy Spirit does not edify the soul but the creatures that are living within. Spiritual wickedness is always seeking to destroy a relationship with the Creator.

In a full relationship, there is a complete exchange of ideas as orchestrated by God's Holy Spirit. Yet, Satan has minion agents here on earth to divide the mind and block it with fleshly ideas which differ from God's Spirit. This also keeps any from experiencing eternal life from heaven while here on earth. For if darkness can put out light while in the world and cut us off from having a full flowing heavenly mind, we can be trapped in a system that only knows being bound to this world.

We are powerless without God while here on earth, this is why it is essential not to retain information with a mind of flesh, but set thoughts free by faith. For if it is God's loving Spirit, He will return the information to you after it is relearned, allowing you to remain teachable as you learn more of Him while walking in the light as the deep of His love calls unto the deep. Full freedom allows us to walk by faith, allowing us to do everything as unto the Lord in a state of freedom. For any who stay in a numbskull mindset of the flesh in a relationship with God are not free to grow from glory to glory. Now, taking in the view of His heavenly realm in abundance while down here on earth, I have light to see what hides within the dark. A joining of my heart to mind keeps them pliable enough to learn that connecting to the brilliance of Christ's love grants greater access to hear God's voice.

It is always important to remember that Jesus said, "My sheep hear my voice and will not follow the voice of a strange shepherd." If a spirit other than God's Holy Spirit does not encourage you to know God's light while at rest in His peace, as to "Seek peace and pursue it," but rather finds you in the world or the flesh and heading towards darkness, it is a wrong direction.

I suspect that physical ailments can happen here to put us back on track by slowing us down to seek Him again to reconsider the direction we are heading in. Although, I am not saying that this is always the case as God has a set timing to glorify His name which has been established from the foundations of the world. Yet, when the physical flesh gets spiritually numb from blockage, all kinds of things go physically wrong as God's love of light and life can get choked out when evil spirits become involved at times.

A sure indication that something is spiritually wrong is when our feelings go numb. For this does not allow us to have a balanced relationship with God as there is no peace for perspective with Him, ourselves, or others.

My first clue that I was numb to my feelings that set me on the road to discover why my emotions were detached from my thoughts happened in Iowa.

I was sitting on a porch when two cars went drag racing by. Crash! They hit a third car that ran a stop sign in the intersection. Perhaps being from the Bronx desensitized me, or that my feelings were so damaged it didn't phase me or a little bit of both. For when I saw someone nearly jump out of their skin as they rose from a chair near me in reaction and I didn't even blink, I asked myself the question at age 19, "Is there something strange about me that I'm not seeing?"

I learned that when there is no interaction with others, we do not cross swords to exchange ideas of expression for friction to spark forth light to encounter any bonding relationships, they do not happen. Here, empathy goes lacking and foundations of healthy love do not set in. Without any guidance, we trip and fall down in the dark and get very hurt till going numb from a lot of too many bruises. My only consolation was that I lived long enough to discover where I didn't belong emotionally and found enough light of truth for a path of life that allowed me to find the hand of friendship with God.

Parts of me are still numb as I am aware and I'm calling on Jesus in prayer while in need of repair. Eternal light has now brought me back to where I went comfortably numb. I admit that being a hyperactive child made me annoying to be with at times, but before being diagnosed and put on medication, an incident happened to me where I was made to feel it was not safe to feel in an abusive world anymore. A switch flipped within me and I shut them down. Sitting in the back seat at age five, my older sister had punched me in the stomach really hard for humming to myself while trying to calm myself down without even realizing what I was doing.

Now at sixty-four years of age, I am finally able to feel safe enough to recognize this trauma that occurred and know to give myself permission to feel again. I now trust God is here to protect me. Learning that it is better to face adversity in the light of the truth than live in the shadows of a lie of just existing, I now understand that abusers do not know what they are doing while being spiritually led to do the wrongs that they do. All prior decisions, which get by in life, drive the train that we fuel and ride upon unwillingly. For after that first dark thought of choosing to handle things on our own rather than ask God to deliver us, we do not recognize that we have paid the fare spiritually to the conductor who is the devil Himself. It is a deception to believe that you drive your own train, for we are always heading for one of two destinations, heaven or hell.

No longer numb, it feels good to be fully alive. You too can reclaim your life under the authority of Jesus Christ, once you recognize the first demonic influence that caused you to veer from the truth of who God created you to be. It's never too late to stop living in the deception of a seduction to choose to live a lie. The truth will always allow you to ride the train by the gift of grace and change the direction you are heading in.

Taking Thoughts Captive

Walking through the subway tunnels with no clearance on either side with a bag of spray paint in my hand while writing graffiti was on my mind, lights beamed on the tracks from a train approaching to pass on the other side. I next stood behind cemented pylons among some scurrying rats as not to be seen by the motorman. If a train came by on my side of the tracks, I would be dead, but not to worry as we followed behind the train that left the station only moments before.

My adrenaline flowed as me and my partner in crime walked the extra hundred yards or so before disappearing into a maze of emergency exit chambers to come out on the other side and enter the hidden underground train yard. This may seem like a wild teen adventure that still hides in the recessed shadows of my mind in memory, but why was I there? Now looking back through the light of hindsight, I was being led by the unseen demon dog thoughts that remained hidden in dark corners of pain from my torn heart that lacked all reason. I had no emotions to tell my thoughts that this was crazy as I had damaged feelings.

People do insane things to destroy themselves while lacking in emotional intelligence. For when gut feelings are dark, the simple pass on and get punished. It happens within people that run from the discomforts of their pain while unseen spiritual winds drive them onward. For dragons know that if we slow down for more than a pause and enter the stillness of God's complete world, "Be still and know that I am God," they would lose us. God's healing light of love and life breaks us away to no longer be a dragon's prize. He is the answer that flows from the deep unto the deep by the Holy Spirit from within as a fountain to drink. For when filled to overflow alive, we feast on Him and grow. Then the weed-like spirits lose energy from the meal of their ownership over our drained life's blood and flee. Now our own energy is truly ours. In the freedom of entry into eternal life on earth as it is in heaven, it begins to be forever ours. For as God's love restrains us in preparation of our glorified bodies, we know the path to walk as He guides us into taking every thought captive unto the subjection of God to discern who we truly are and know what manner of train that we are riding on.

When the head is heading in the right direction, the rest of the body follows. I have discovered if my thoughts do not look like they are encouraging me to a deeper relationship with Christ, they are leading me away from becoming fueled by eternal life while here on earth.

I love my Lord Jesus Christ and because I do I must learn to hear His voice over the voices of darkness from my youth. They call me back towards the dark to love this painful world system by escaping the pain of falling down in spiritual abuse. I act out to ease my hurts by satisfying myself with any fleshly desires that I can get my hands on. This leaves me feeling empty inside as my flesh can never satisfy my needs to walk in knowing God’s love or eternal life as the bride of Christ.

The devil always tries to convince me otherwise by suggesting that I’m imagining things, “There is no pathway of peace! So why not try and ease your pain?” Then I’m convinced to accelerate my pace and grab onto something other than my loving God while distracted. In the idolatry of food, money, and material things or even spiritual guides that lack in depth of intimacy with the truth of having a full and fun relationship with God, I take note that something is very wrong. A counterfeiting voice which leads to rage filled lust, proclaiming, “I don’t want to let something go as it is greater than God’s love,” instead, binds our hearts to them as spiritual adulterers. If it does not look like Jesus, it isn’t. How easily we become seduced by spirits that try and entertain us away from Christ. If the message is not go out and make disciples of all men, we are walking away from Him.

However, it does take time to grow to maturity to do this while being rooted and grounded in the love of His vine to truly reflect His light to the world.

“Lord Jesus, I ask that You slow me down to embrace Your love in full gratitude again. I want be at peace with You in holiness of Spirit that I not depart from walking in eternal life on earth as it is in heaven. Give me the endurance to keep persevering to be still in my uneasiness till there are no more storms while before the warmth of Your affectionate presence. Please, keep me focusing on you.”

Grief is good here in expressing our emotional upheavals to our King’s Authority here on earth in the form of a priest as confession delivers us from detaching from our thoughts, sparing damage from the depression of emotionally going our own way. Self centeredness is selfish as it causes us to grab onto its rule of darkness within its kingdom of the night which blinds us to having sight of light. Though in self-esteem, we let go of our control to let love in to hold Our Lord’s embrace where beholding our raptured eyes, before each other while on earth, all are saved from death replaced by eternal life.

Our lips must be captivated to have a balance between our thoughts and emotions for an expression of a full feeling life. Only then are we not disrupted by the motion of the dark, but are free to speak in light and life. Every man must be free in spirit and in truth where in the center of a space, we are able to love while spit upon in this world with peace among the human race with God's kiss upon our face. A mind that is single and clear without any darkness has no fear. Restful are perceptions when only love is in the air as visions from light lay here. For when our steps are sound in looking to the Face of Christ, thoughts are taken captive by eternal life where all is beheld as bright.

Schooling

When people are placed in schools and anticipate learning something new, it might not be that simple. For later on in life, I discovered that my mind was placed into a box. I was led to believe that a household, community, or a country is the end of a means to having a full scope of reality. I also learned that it is really a dark place when ending up discontent. Even for the rare minority who have the privilege of having a global outlook, if they believe that time and space is all there is, limitations are imposed on themselves. There is no encountering eternity when lacking to understand that time is separated from and yet connected to the eternal. As while this is the case, the concept of eternal life becomes left untouched. For those who have faith and do not negate that there is something more than just the soil of circumstance, discover that they are not just planted in this world but are growing up to be no longer of it.

For when climbing the mountain of God's love, when slowing down to focus on our surroundings, we embrace the warmth of His light while passing through the stages of friction, heat, fire, and into His mind of knowing Him in light. Each stage of growth happens in the acknowledgement of eternal life. Only the lie of what lives in a mind that denies the existence of eternal light does not acknowledge the holiness of truth. “For even the demons know scripture and they tremble.” Yet, there are those who wrestle their thoughts in darkness calling it light to a demise of preferring destruction over life.

I let go of what ailed me in my miseries and let God come in by burning through the pain of adversity that was uncomfortably hidden to me. Then by embracing my mind in the encouragement of true light, I faced what was hidden in the dark. Yes, I grew from out of the soil and replaced it with the mercy of light by love. For in growing in my relationship with regenerative blood, eternal life entered my heart. It leveled me off in a balanced way to grow upward in resurrection from out of the dark. Here, what shattered my mind to prevent me from focusing through darkness into light was broken by trusting in a perseverance of faith that led me to inherit the promises of God in an eternal life.

I am talking about becoming tuned to the fact that there are doors of love to be encountered by the harmony of God’s truth that we grow into when shared. Cross over points are orchestrated by God all over the place, which fine tune us to not be strung out or out of tune with what it is to be alive. People need to be shown God’s love in us before they can bond with and meet the truth of Him as we are branches connected to the root of His eternal vine.

Here is another part of my journey with God that illustrates this point. I worked as an assistant manager and mechanic and fixed shrinkwrap packaging machines in addition to managing the more than 30 packers behind them.

I always put God first in my life once He was discovered and believed in doing everything as unto the Lord. So, I became a servant to the workers and only led by way of example. It took patient time, but I earned the workers respect, trust, and then finally loyalty for them to trust my relationship with God over the course of years. I ran many experiments with the spiritual world before them and even sometimes they volunteered to be participants. Here are a few incidents that I recall. There was a violent electrical storm that passed over the packing plant with thunder and rain. Just before this happened I had fasted in preparation for going out and evangelizing at the port authority in New York City. This took place during the mid 1980's. The heavy rain came down like buckets being poured over the overhead skylights. I suddenly became spiritually sensitive and spread out my arms and flapped them like I was a bird in flight while running the length of the 3,600 square foot warehouse. All at once while there was lightning and thunder, at about the same time, instead of flying straight with my feet on the ground while guided by the Holy Spirit, I curved around the center of the warehouse and passed around a force. I sensed it was there but could not see it.

After I was guided around the force, I continued to be guided to Miss Gonzales who's younger brother worked there as well. The workers thought nothing of my behavior as over the years they became used to it. She was about 10 yards past the force that I had just gone around and 2 yards to the left. When I stopped and stood before her, near the corner machine in the packaging plant, I saw that she was very upset about something. Feeling led of the Holy Spirit, I told her to extend her hand forward. She gave me a peculiar look, but Miss Gonzales did as I asked. I sensed that her hand was in the wrong spot. So, taking her hand, I said, “No, not over there, but here.” Moving her hand over to what I felt was the right spot, a smile broke out on her face as tears of joy filled her eyes. Yes, about a foot over was the right spot. We both saw nothing but she had been touched by an outpouring of God’s love. Yes, there are doors to other worlds that are invisible. The realm of heaven where Jesus the Christ reigns from is very real.

Now, here is an incident that opened a door for me to see what is invisible in the visible where I received visions from the light of God. The packaging plant had moved from an industrial park in Carlstadt, New Jersey to T-neck, New Jersey. After losing customers, it was determined that downsizing to a smaller facility was a better solution as less space meant less overhead. We were in a huge walk-in prep space where the packing machines were configured around the perimeter of the room and we passed through a refrigerated food storage area and by this we entered an enormous cold room to get inside the room within a room within the warehouse.

One day at work while humming a sweet tune unto the Lord, He pierced my darkness by taking me to another level of new growth. It was as though I had sprouted from beneath the darkness of soil and burst forth into an eternal world of heavenly light where now I started to see everything around me differently. I was in the beginning stages of having sight during this time. This was perceived as a brilliance of light piercing the veil of my fleshly dark mind. Yet, now I understand that I had completed my stages of growth in darkness where rooted and grounded in love, by the blood of Christ, I was ready for another stage of growth.

Soon after seeing the light, I took ahold of the truck driver's arm who's name was Ramon. Him being a Pentecostal Minister as well as a driver, I asked him to pray with me. For I knew that spiritual experiences are not just there for our private interpretation, but the edification of the church as bride for the bridegroom, whose name is Jesus Christ.

While praying, the pentecostal minister saw the light as well and became so overwhelmed that he sat down on the ground and leaned with his back against the wall while resting his head on his knees as he held his hands to his head. I asked, "You saw the light, too, didn't you?" He then said, "Yes," in confirmation and it became established in the witness of a testimony of the truth bearing witness of itself that what we received was of the Lord.

The next day, while humming a melody to the Lord while at work again, I became overwhelmed and sat down at my desk where leaning slightly forward, I held my head with my hands while receiving another vision.

I saw the top of my skull peeled back with bright golden yellow strands of thread criss-crossed in a grid within my brain floating in my head. I did not understand the meaning of this vision until God reminded me that prior to this it was revealed: Love + Truth (Balanced) = Light. So using this information, I reconfigured the equation to Emotions + thoughts (Balanced) = Full Feelings. Soon after, it was quickened to me that the golden strands though joining in the brain, were in conjuncture with my entire body. For when stress hits us, it affects our emotions by crowding them together, causing them to detach from our thoughts. Then I remembered the verse, “God resists the proud, but gives grace to the humble.” For when handling things in my pride, I always became torn between my emotions and thoughts, fogging my mind where being stressed out, holes in our souls are made for demons to come and live in these dark spaces. Though when humble, God grants me a life of peace that allows me to spring back into position to retain a life of balance to reflect His glory to others.

Another incident happened with my beloved brother and co-worker Hector. He was helping me with something in the cold storage room and when we were finished, the Holy Spirit fell on us so heavily that we both started laughing in the Spirit. He stood there pointing at me while I was laughing till hopping on one foot, trying not to fall over until down I went on the ground with a joy that I could not contain. Hector then said while laughing himself, “You have just been slain by the Holy Spirit.”

Another incident happened that was very sad. I had a vision of another co-worker named Vinny. Vinny’s ghost appeared to me after he had killed himself, I can only explain what I saw as him being in purgatory. I saw it coming, all the signs were there, but I did not have the opportunity to come to him until the next day to talk to him about it. Unfortunately, that night he hung himself.

I'm going to tell you all the events that happened that did not allow me to talk to Him in private and caused me to wait. For everything I am going to disclose is accurate in the world of spirits which prevented me from confronting him. Had I had greater knowledge of the spirit world back then I would have spoke to him about suicide right away.

Vinny was the maintenance, mechanic, and carpenter for Finest Fruits and our sister company, Tropical Brands Packaging Corp. Coming to work for Tropical Brands, which introduced the Spanish line of fruits and vegetables to the US, in the New York City and New Jersey areas, caused me to meet him as a co-worker.

Vinny did the work of 3 people and was on call 24 hours 7 days a week as he was also in charge of air conditioning and refrigeration for the company. He was suffering from emotional pain because his wife had threatened divorce due to her lack of understanding his position. I found him to be a nice man with a good disposition and hard work ethic. He was doing what he had to do for his job and this seemed to take a toll on their marriage.

Now the stage is set. Being married to the owner's daughter of Tropical Brand Packaging. Corp. I saw things on a little more intimate level. I watched the boss, my father in law, use Vinny to build out our basement in a house and property that his wife had purchased as an investment for our family that I maintained while working for Tropical Brands. Helping Vinny at the house is how I got to know him. Vinny was a private person and was under emotional pressure at home. I learned later that due to working 24/7, he had been worn thin. When things started to add up for me, I'd say he was worn a little too thin on his schedule as being spiritual discerning, I started to notice that his life was heading for the rocks. He was just finishing off a lighting fixture in our dining area of the house and began to come down off the ladder. This was it, my opportunity to talk to him about not committing suicide, but all of the sudden, my almost PHD psychology observant wife came in with my troubled daughter, who was suspected of being under the influence of demonic activity, entered the house as well. I saw the spirit on my daughter Danielle guide her right between me and Vinny. The moment I was waiting for was gone.

You see my wife, Dawn, was observing me, along with a psychiatrist, about my medication as I had been released under her care from the hospital and rescued from the facility so to speak. My now ex-wife Dawn was two courses shy in getting a doctorate in psychology. I was on a high dose of medicine to curb my evangelism, but it had no effect on my mind, only my body and as I did not want it raised anymore in causing a disturbance before her, I decided to wait till the next day when I would see him at work. I also was not in a good position and did not realize it at the time that my marriage was heading for a divorce as well.

Looking back, I would have to say that the Holy Spirit was right, but being inexperienced, I did not know what else to do during this situation. For I almost knew for certain that had I confronted Vinny in front of Dawn and my daughter that he would have denied it.

He hung himself that night and the next day his ghost showed up before me at work. I thought I was seeing things until my father in law came and told me that Vinny had hung himself with an extension cord during the night. My knees buckled and I got light headed. He appeared to me later on again and I told him that he was dead, for he did not know it. My next words were, "In the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, depart from me and come no more.

Poor Vinny, when last seen was a pale white blue apparition and destined to roam in a sort of purgatory. Satan orchestrated him into taking his own life with his free will of choice by manipulating circumstances, I only pray that Jesus be merciful with him and keep holding me for not taking action sooner by the power of His merciful blood.

The end result of him killing himself led to his son committing a murder and going to jail for life. When life has no meaning or direction, nothing really matters much, suicide and murder included.

I was learning the spiritual world and one of the most important lessons is to abide with The Christ, enjoy the company of His presence, and let everything else become secondary. "I am the vine and you are the branches and apart from me you can do nothing.” His presence is pure love which sparks a light to understand the order of life. So, the next time you are being schooled, hold up what you’re learning to the lens of not only scripture but the root of the bloodline of life itself. Then ask yourself when rightly dividing the word of truth, does it bear witness to stability or slip through your fingers like sand, sifted by the devil to pass through your hand?

Great Deception or Not?

Being good without knowing why is a great deception. This is an evil that I learned in first grade. For it denied me a true sense of self to be myself and this led me to believe that I was being true to a greater cause of something called country. In fact, now in taking a look back, I ask the question, “If we are all from the same creator, are we not all members of a grand family?”

I was living a lie and never real in the first place because I was being trained to have a focus that took my eyes off of learning about God where my country became my song instead. I lived a programmed set of values before I existed, which placed me in a prison within my own soul until I met God in the real of reality.

Now, I may embrace truth and love in balance which allows me to have sight with a maximum perception. When love and truth came into balance for me by trusting God, I was able to see light to comprehend how everything fit together and at last live a full life. Prior to this, my mind was bombarded with duty to a country that was the concept of men and not God. I would have preferred to have learned about God first, so that I could have had a more clear purpose for my life from the beginning. For if you do not know what you were originally created for, one wanders around in life until their light goes out in a death that has no meaning. Don't get me wrong. I appreciate the freedom of our country in which I was able to meet God, but I am left uncertain about the structure of how we are supposed to meet Him. Though the most important thing is that I was able to meet Him.

Perhaps at His appointed time and not mine.

Next, left with the freedom of having time to be on my own, I discovered the answer to the riddle of life and my real identity in the process. Finally being true to myself, I found the blueprint of who I was purposed to be as the veil of darkness had been removed. I sought the Lord, found Him, and He has redeemed me out of the dark to be translated into the kingdom of light of eternal life and finally discover a full embrace of His love.

At one time nothing made sense to me, for I was confused about what it was to be alive, but now I have been given the gift of eternal treasure. God says in His word, "If you search for me with all your heart you will find me," and I did. I do not have all the answers, although I have the answer which shall lead me to all the others upon request. Right now, I'm just desiring to remain in God's presence and enjoy Him for as long as I can. For now, having "Gone Sane," I see that rather than ask questions, I'd rather wait for Him to instruct me while I continue just to enjoy His love and trust Him.

God has a plan for not only my life, but a mission for everyone to fulfill their divine purpose. We're in the realm of the valley of the shadow of death where we no longer have to fear evil, because God will be with us beyond the end of this age. We are going from glory to glory in the different stages of growth in life, likened unto how our cousin plants in creation grow in similar fashion until we finally move into our glorified bodies.

I've died to come alive, I'm born again into another stage of growth and I cannot wait to see what God has in store for me in the future, having come out of darkness and entered into light.

As a part of my growth, I saw a piercing brilliant light from off in the distance within my spiritual mind's eye. Now I understand. The light of the fluorescent fixture in the stairwell was not obtainable because it was an imitation of the light I saw. Now my mind has pierced the veil of darkness within and beyond the fixture. Further looking back, I would say that God was calling me to come to Him. Only, due to the fact that I lacked understanding, I did not realize how impossible it was to get to Him on my own strength or merits. For to embrace this light, as it was an eternal one, God was showing me that He was going to grow me towards Himself while in the midst of the creations I found myself surrounded by.

This was to continue me on my journey of having a full relationship with Him. Little did I know that I was about to document a large portion of my journey through the trial and error of my first book, "Living Your Life according to Connecting the dots by number." Here, I learned that God allows me to go on and off His "True Path" of truth as a part of learning His grace. He was setting the stage for me to write a ten book series where I would head in the right direction in growing in my relationship with Him.

It is said, “When lacking in wisdom, confusion exists and what is real can be overlooked.” I have spent over forty years cataloging wisdom through a search of observation on how to live life to the fullest while meditating and writing award-winning published poetry which is available for free on my website calingtoncastle.com under the heading, “Author’s Blog Desk.”

One day around seven years of age, the question, “Why am I here?” entered my mind. I came to the conclusion that life was confusing and wanted to find the meaning of how to understand it. I started searching and as I grew in knowledge, I tried the any of everything for answers while life seemed to lack contentment for me.

After discovering that there is no life in the commotion of the mundane, I realized that I was tasting death and was not truly and fully alive while dissatisfied.

The book series “Calington Castle,” for ages 11 to adult, is an enjoyable fictional journey with documentations of observation to make one fully aware and alive through real life experiences, which I wrote while counseling many. It is set in an action-packed mystical medieval adventure story series that connects with deep love for healing. When understanding the spiritual side of reality to see the physical through spiritual eyes, life becomes stable.

You are invited to go on the greatest adventure of your life in this timeless tale where you might even discover your purpose while on it.

Sharing full life experiences has allowed me to watch others come alive and this has become my passion. Real life to me is being in touch with the full feelings of eternal life on earth as it is in heaven while drawing from the root of the seed of the living flesh and blood vine of Jesus Christ's divinity. I know Him face to face because I can taste the life He offers from being joined to the flavor of His fruitful vine of life. It is greater than the death I once tasted while belonging to the dead bloodline of Adam's vine until I was grafted into the living blood of God's.

Discernment

Our understanding of God should not come from different interpretations on how to relate to Him. But by understanding God's voice in humility that we would yield to and accept Him as The Father in a loving authority that has our best interests at heart. His voice establishes a protection for us by leading and guiding us into all truth as directed by His Holy Spirit.

Anything that distracts us from fully receiving God's love will stunt our growth and keep back a relationship with Him, preventing us from receiving the full depth of His love and truth in a balanced way. God has boundaries and has to trust us in an established relationship with Him in the same way we would want to trust Him.

We are created in God's image. In the same way we do not want to be abused by God, neither does He want to be abused by us. He only allows us to draw near when respecting His voice.

There are stages in a relationship: 1) infatuation, 2) respect, 3) trust, and 4) intimacy. Without growing in your relations with God in a proper order of progression, you will never get to a place of understanding that obedience to God comes through loving Him. This is what establishes healthy boundaries in our lives and how His love protects us through His restraints as when in love we do not want to cheat on Him with another spirit. For if we do not see eye to eye with Him, we will encounter a disruption of peace from our conscience where we're left lacking rest within it. This is why we are to seek peace and pursue it. Remember that, "We are to walk in the light as He is in the light that darkness doth not overtake us." For when there is turbulence we cannot see over the crests of waves in time and have level eternal sight.

In God's world, there are no variables of shifting shadows that would prevent us from having a clear vision of His love. In this way, we can understand how to discern God's voice in clarity once His eternal loving point of view has become clear. For what is pleasurable to the flesh in excess is not profitable for the Spirit as they battle against each other in the members of our being in the war over our souls.

For we live in a world of many spirits, but only the Holy Spirit contains all the attributes to enhance our lives towards a single, peaceable, and clear mind. A mind without any disturbances knows what it is to be at peace. For, "The mind is kept at perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee."

A peaceable mind allows us a level and firm foundation to build upon. "Line upon line, precept upon precept, and here a little there a little," as in just like the rack of a loom for making fabrics, wisdom is established by knowledge that is gathered as fine thread from a spindle. Passing through reality happens on the wrap of a shuttle-beam and when pulled through, these threads of knowledge are pressed tightly on the loom and woven into the fabric of wisdom.

God is weaving us into a relationship with Him for brilliance of mind in the same way. A mind full of light having no loose threads or variable waves from darkness found in time has sight. This is where a search for a guiding light out of the confusion of spiritual darkness must be found and here is where the discernment of telling the differences between good and evil is birthed.

Once a mind has been enlightened with the Holy Spirit from God, it knows the difference from the brilliance of eternal light and what is out of order from the dark recesses found in time not of it. For there is a false light that offers success on the world's terms without including God. The deception from what is displaced by evil can easily be seen for it is not from the kingdom of eternal life. Everything that has not been pulled tightly into an eternal relationship with God can be plainly seen in contrast to what is now consistent with the living garment He has given you to be set in a pattern for a full eternal life.

Knowledge of eternity without knowing the wisdom of how to ask God to apply His blood to spark light to your life in a known relationship shall be off balance if you're led to believe it's up to you. It only creates confusion when we are left without sight when calling out into the dark. For left without God's wisdom to set us in order to establish our Lord's given stitchwork of fabric, you'll not be fitted into a garment for His wedding feast even though all are invited. So, unless a garment has no imperfections, one without variables for a worthy garment of pure light, woven by Christ, you shall be asked to leave the wedding feast and miss heaven. “It’s not by might, it’s not by power, but by my Spirit says the Lord.” For love does not force, but has manners and knows how to make a request for help.

“Love never fails.”

Only the purity of God’s flesh and blood can fashion His garment upon us, which Spirit feeds the scriptures of the word became flesh and dwelling among us. For a loose thread can easily be snagged and unravel everything that is being sewn into the stages of our growing eternal life as, “The demon’s know scripture and they tremble.”

So, if anyone challenges you while you are at peace within your garment, worn for eternal life while in the midst of a demonically oppressed world, it should be questioned from where they draw their conclusions. Also, check that you are spotless of convictions while before the Lord in their sight. If you are found unstable within, then you’re unsure of the way to handle the circumstance you find yourself in.

Now let us examine any condition in which you might be found. For when practicing what we do not understand then the truth of stability in all we do is not in us. This is why it is important to remain teachable while reasoning together with others. For if the light of knowledge that has been woven into us is not brilliant enough to minister to us while ministering to others, then further wisdom will not be present and stunt our growth. At the least, the truth must always bear witness to its depth within us as deeper than someone else’s private interpretation or it will not bear witness of the kingdom it is from within itself. This is determined by whether or not we are growing more fervently in our love towards God and others or waxing colder.

“For everything that can be shaken will be shaken, so that which will remain will remain,” as what is stable will remain stable for further growth. Yet, what is not stable will quickly become as a loose thread and topple while unraveling as everything caught shall tear for all to become undone, exposing vices where virtues should be.

Time has no stability next to that which is truly eternal as it becomes displaced by the greater density of its heavier value by the substance of its weight. Herein this displacement lies the true discernment of spirits for everyone. For what is love shows a genuine concern for others in a state of holiness as directed by God’s peaceable Spirit. “Finally, brothers, whatever is true, whatever is lovely, whatever is gracious, if there is any excellence and if there is anything worthy of praise, think about these things.” Everyone who enters your spiritually connected circle of baptism between you and God that are searching will notice the difference and inquire an answer of you as to “why?” You’ve changed.

Unless a change in you is noticed, all else in regards to the gospel of truth will be overlooked. For lust within the pride of life, which continues to spark a darkness will remain until there is a light that shall no longer pass away into confusion. Remember, “No greater love does one have in that he lay down his life for a friend.” When in relations with God, genuine compassion and empathy must be a part of your life or you’ll find yourself sailing in uncharted waters along with everyone else. You must stop and drop anchor into God’s loving arms through the regenerative blood of Christ and enter His circle through water baptism with understanding or remain in the dark for others until they notice your inner change. Be patient and continue to trust by persevering in your faith, for this will only happen within God’s timing, but the end result will be a stronger faith of receiving God’s love no matter what the outcome as the light of understanding His wisdom will come.

For if you don’t know what something means, then the truth of God will be missed as “The simple pass on and get punished,” from a lack of having a complete picture.

You must be redeemed out of Satan’s darkness and enter the circle of God’s eternal light of life or your relationship with God will never be true. For true discernment can never be found in the dark clutches of this fallen angel’s dominion. So, unless born again by the Spirit of God from out of the heritage of Adam, the first man’s bloodline of death, you cannot inherit the regenerative bloodline of Christ. This is why we must connect with God’s spiritual cycle (eye to eye) to not miss the inheritance of His circle of eternal life.

“Now is the kingdom of heaven at hand and now is the prince of this world cast out.” We all belong to the devil until we leave his kingdom through God’s divine blood and water. This is the redemptive exit where we advance into the kingdom of light. As I discern it, we enter into an agreement with Christ by receiving resurrection through the passion of His body and blood when we meet with an understanding of what was accomplished by the crucifixion of Christ on the cross. This must be understood along with passing through the combined combination of the circle of water in creation. All of the circles of life come together in the cycles of nature within what God has created here on earth. The light of this understanding through the power of His Spirit rejoins us to God's kingdom of light found in eternal life. For those who do not understand that all the circles of creation must converge together will continue to journey onward until their focus of being reconnected to God by the Holy Spirit rejoining us to Him comes into full sight.

“This people honor me with their mouths but their hearts are far from me.” So becoming joined to God's kingdom by the seal of an action to match our word on our parts is essential. This demonstration yields a power for creation towards an advance of the light of God's truth. For out from our handbreadths which passes us throughout the span of our lives on the waves of time, we inherit God's promise by exercising our faith which disrupts what holds us to the breadth within darkness till entering the stillness of His eternal light. For the scripture says, “Be still and know that I am God.” Our profession of faith is backed up by our actions, proving our loyalty to trust that our Lord's words are true. We are now consummated in marriage. For in the same way that Christ has fulfilled His mission to back up His word within this mercy of grace by His sacrifice for us as the lamb of God, we also commit by now receiving the body and blood of God as our groom. We have been vindicated by God taking away our sin while receiving His free gift of grace because we have responded in accordance with the truth of His passionate words and actions backed up with our own.

A rich young ruler came to Jesus and asked, “Good Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?” Jesus responded by loving him and said, “Why call me good as there is no good in any man.” I discern that Jesus is saying that He is more than any ordinary man as He is the man, Christ, Jesus. Man as friend, Christ as God in the highest authority, and Jesus is who we are being changed into over time.

“Be not hearers of the word only but imitators as well.” We cannot imitate God as men due to our imperfections. Once realized, we humble ourselves before Him in our imperfect natures in following Him who is perfection. For He is God and we are not. So, we must go to “The Christ ” as the highest authority and ask Him to change us into the likeness of Himself to be turned into Jesus while exiting our old natures in stages of growth which happens bit by bit. For Jesus said to the Pharisees, “Does not the scriptures say, ‘We are gods?’” I have learned to ask God to change the essence of my being that I may be grafted into the blood of His new covenant mentioned at the last supper to His apostles in the humility of His mercy and grace.

Jesus then told the young ruler to honor the ten commandments to which he responded, "I have kept them since my youth." Then Jesus replied, "You still have one thing lacking. Go sell all you have, give all your money to the poor and follow me. The ruler went away very sad for he had great wealth." Jesus was testing his faith by giving him a trial in which the ruler handled in His own strength rather than humble himself as he did not choose to ask God to change his heart.

Soon after, his apostles came to Him and asked, "Who then can be saved?" Jesus's response was, "With man nothing is possible, but with God all things are possible."

Rightly dividing the word of truth is also possible when discerning that all of scripture points to the root source of scripture which is the new covenant. Any can receive the blood of Christ's own regenerative resurrection blood when bought and paid for. For rooted and grounded by the love of Christ, which is the mercy of His given blood, we can know Him by Grace.

It says in the book of Revelations, "Behold 'The Lamb of God' slain from the foundation of the world." For as, "God is the same yesterday, today, and forevermore," He was there in the beginning of creation. Now, as a fount of water His blood gushes forth to meet and supply for all our needs over the span of time as an act of mercy, which includes discernment.

Discovering Other's Outside Myself

Life was so dark for me at one time that I could not link up my thoughts with my emotions due to the trauma of having no guidance or bonding love which caused my feelings to go numb. I became a numbskull and void of feelings, I did not know that I was clueless to what life was all about. There was no God while imploding inside as I was among other peers who were members of the living dead.

The living dead are those who walk in darkness, which causes a denial of access to the light of truth to enter a soul, as there is no light to see life. Here, walking in darkness and lacking in the knowledge of what it is to be alive, my spiritual eyes were closed. There were others who did not see me as well while walking in the dark. All was darkness around as my eyes revolved around a life that was all about me. The burden of me caring for myself to just survive was all that I seemed to be able to handle. The tighter this pattern wrapped itself around me, the more anxious I became till life overwhelmed me as a juggler who had dropped all. Then one day the question came. "How can I enjoy the ride of this out of control animal of a life I cannot tame?"

This was a first spark of light that came, for after experiencing the any of everything with my wisdom in what seemed to be a spiritually dry world, I was ready to try something more.

Jesus said that He is the door. “What does He really mean by that?” The bible verse, “Be still and know that I am God,” grants us entrance into eternal life through the birth canal of His Holy regenerative resurrection living blood. As in the verse, “Be holy as I am holy.” When I finally realized that I could not gain this lifestyle on my own, humbling myself before God, I asked Him to change this corrupted body of mine. For I needed to slow down from the motions of life to come out of the usual darkness of my confusion. I started to slow down to catch up with God and pass through stages of friction, heat, and fire which caused me to grow within sparks of light through all that was dark. “I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me.”

Coming out of my usual routine, until entering true thoughts of reason was difficult at first, but this allowed me to grow towards true light. Real understanding came on how to be birthed by the grace of God’s power and by His perfection. I discovered eternal life while on earth as it is in heaven, and here I became aware of others outside myself. This is where my eyes were opened to receive sight by the essence of peace found in the nature of a kingdom that revolved around the God who not only cares for us but carries all our burdens.

Yes, through an unshakeable stillness found only on the cornerstone of Jesus Christ, holding all together, a resurrection line of blood was discovered that I could join which was established by Him. I eventually saw how He set almost everything into being. I then chose to take God up on the offer of His promise to restore me. Humbling myself before Him, I asked for a change of life by being birthed within. Then by the door of His regenerative resurrection blood, I was able to slow down in the midst of the whirlwind I was in. Through a canal which took me from a path that caused me to pass through the friction of darkness unto light by His Son, Jesus Christ, I left the condition I was in and began my entrance into eternal life. For now being in this world and no longer of it, I was saved, being saved, and would be saved as long as I honored Him in His new covenant by what was said in His word.

This was all established at the beginning of time when Lucifer who was in charge of the heavenly choirs rebelled at the sight of the crown of God's creation called "man."

Lucifer was okay with God creating stars and planets and the earth which contained water. The creation of plants, birds, and fish, even the addition of animals. Though when "The Creator" put them all together and formed man, which ignited a living soul that would last forever with His own intimate breath, this angel became jealous of the crown of God's creation. The light that shone, shining from the glory of this creation was brighter than lightning from the purity of man's full holy wholeness of completion. When the first man Adam was formed, Eve was soon to follow from out of his rib to be a helpmate. The conception of a thought, "God no longer loves me," was conceived in this light bearing angel's heart. The mere thought of God not loving appeared to threaten Lucifer's position in the form of a deluded self-deception. For when coming into existence, man was in perfect harmony and in line with the image of God. This was something that this envious angel could not comprehend and it caused its light to go dark. After rejecting God's love, it now wanted to rise above what God had to rule in everything and this included killing Him for His new creation.

Lucifer's name was changed to Satan, the instant a spark of darkness in the form of a lie, containing no light of love came into being. By its own doing, within the lie of a hatred that said God did not love and was untrue to His nature of being life, a murderous rage became a spark, scratching the harmony of heaven from Lucifer's heart. Yet, God was not unfair, only the self-imposed deceptive pride of lust that was conjured up in Lucifer's mind, causing disharmony in heaven was unfair.

The pride that entered in severed this angel from God's kingdom and into becoming Satan on the other side of light at what was called the great divide. Its personal rage caused this angel to blame man for its actions and seek out revenge. This was the creation of the inception of its own thought, outside the presence of light and truth. The bond of love was broken from trusting God. Then in the scratch of a sound that was outside the presence of heaven, this now father of liars could not accept blame for its own or any actions.

God's facts of true life left this fallen angel's mind unto where only the dark glory of its own truth of lies remained. Now deceiving a third of the other angels with its unstable creation of a lie, Satan convinced the angels that followed him to be forced out of eternity into a displaced realm, created in mercy, called time.

Satan craftily slithered its way into the mind of a dragon and spoke mentally to Eve, the first woman's dark thoughts, convincing her by deception to eat a forbidden fruit to join to its lie. Eve was deceived, but Adam allowed it by not defending her. Rather than obey his loving Maker, he chose to forfeit his life. God's way of truth was sacrificed and he lost being alive with light. After failing to adequately guard God's garden, he too fell into deception after Eve where everything went dark.

Now, until the Christ, there was no redeeming mankind back from the tainting of his blood by inheriting death from sin where God went missing from within. Until later on, all would agree by the one's untainted blood who walked purely on earth as it is in heaven. Man now could be restored by this second Adam clothed in the truth to be a body of light, rejoining God's new bride called the church, which this second man, Christ Jesus, defended by His untainted blood.

Restored, renewed, and redeemed by the power of a resurrected bloodline of life, the second Adam, Jesus, came to defend His bride's honor by paying for her sin. His pure blood of sacrifice through obedience to His Father and now ours, by being apart of His church, could be fulfilled through us being restored. The living waters in the circle of life guides by following the Christ who fulfilled all as our example in baptism for us. For He opened the door to return to Him. God has also made a way where there was no way as in the thief on the cross who was able to acknowledge and join himself to the truth of Jesus through grace by way of faith.

While living without faith in this realm, I walked as dead among the creatures who lived in darkness and negated trusting in God. So, until learning about the light of His fullness of truth, I stayed amongst the living dead who remained outside of eternity and as a zombie I walked under Satan's control. For without knowing the joy of life from being born into God's kingdom, the reception of eternal life's properties of being alive remained elusive.

I had no peace inside my restless soul, for I remained in isolation while not knowing what God had to offer. Even when among crowds of others, I remained isolated. Until, I set myself apart from copying everyone else's behavior when discovering the verse, "Be thou separate, come out from among them and touch not the unclean thing." Placing emphasis on believing in the resurrection of a bloodline that would not die, unlike man's bloodline that did, brought me freedom. For due to the lies we inherited from the realm of time we're in, we see things dimly under the cloak of Satan's veil of darkness from the uprising of this fallen angels rebellious nature while in a fallen world that passes through all time within the breadth.

My eyes are now opened to receive the goodness of God's life, it replaces Satan's evils of darkness and the hatred that goes along with the absence of God. My flavor of life has changed from tasting death to being alive. For now as a part of the kingdom of light and life of all men, I'm no longer alone, but enjoy the giver of life by whom I reside. The more I turn over my life to Jesus, the more light leads me away from this world by His Spirit which is my guide.

The Devil's Brew is a Cultural Melting Pot

We are all mixed together in a cultural melting pot, but that's not the way things were intended to be after the day's of Noah. You see, beforehand, all the rest of mankind was destroyed by flood, for total disrespect for God and each other which earned His wrath. A fresh start was given until Ham disrespected his father, Noah, by laughing at his nakedness in a spirit of pride, bringing a curse upon him. Ham was now instructed by God's Spirit to serve his other two brothers who respected their father. Shem and Japheth showed respect for their father by clothing him without looking upon his nakedness when drunk which was counted to them as righteous. Generations later family tribes and ties came together to protect, provide, and strategize on how to survive the elements of any given environment for all its members under the direction of God.

When Abram entered into a covenant with God through a sacrifice that The Lord, Himself, ratified, it was counted as righteous. For when this call to the righteous act went to be carried out his God intervened by showing him grace. Abram showed honor by the action of him leaving what the world's system had to offer to continue on with God and was justified by following in faith later on.

This opened the door to his name and essence of being changed to Abraham to complete his contract. Abraham's life now revolved around the living bloodline of Yahweh, who had made a covenant with God on his behalf. Now walking into

The Lord's resurrection by grace, Abraham was justified to no longer incur a life belonging to spiritual death but that of a living eternal life. Abraham's life now became centered on the living Christ Messiah who guided him by The Holy Spirit of His essence within. For he was made a part of His tribe of the eternal living by the blood of the covenant sacrifice offering, which allowed him entrance into the door of eternity by grace after inheriting the bloodline of Shem, son of Noah.

Abraham is the father of faith by the light and truth of making a covenant with God while in this world through, The Messiah, by grace. Now all who were to follow in the circumcision of their foreskin of flesh upon their hearts have had their hearts pricked to serve God and not themselves anymore, just like Yahweh. They now would trust in the provision of God's intervention through the justification of the truth of faith.

At a later time, eternal life could also be ushered into any who would receive God by faith through the blood of the same God. For his agreement with God was a precursor of what was to come in our New Covenant with Him today in fulfillment of what was promised. Following in Abraham's foot steps throughout a land of death, there would be no relief unless continuing to walk on the inviting path of eternal life established by Yahweh, the Messiah. His is the path of light that enables us to see how to have right actions and enjoy them as a part of the fellowship of suffering the flesh to become alive by the Holy Spirit. For when doing the right thing within a righteous attitude before the Lord, a real life filled with His genuine love is His reward.

Countless times in life, I tried to do things my own way. Then without understanding that there were spiritual consequences to my actions, not being under God's direction would end in disastrous results while off His path. For when trying to fit my own devices into God's plan, life situations always turned out wrong as the Door to God's light would remain closed.

Using our own devices without considering God, we strengthen our arms of flesh and invite a self-centered pride of life that invites in darkness rather than the humility of Holy light. While trying to meet with what God could only do in His timing spiritually, I would find myself in dead end thoughts or endeavors quite often. It is written that, "The lord chastens whom He loves," as He always lets us know when we are not being intimate with Him by gently pointing out where we are lacking His virtues. In each consummation moment of communion, we either invite the devil's death by pulling away from His love or entreat intimacy with the Spirit of the living God's light of life.

My sight was limited, even though my endeavors seemed that it would work out during a season. It was like trying to string together a necklace of pearls without having vision of the light on the other side of the hole. It wasn't till I discovered that I needed God's guidance, He revealed to me what to do by His Spirit over my mind of flesh.

This is why we need to first find peace with God while in indecision. We need the light of His truth to guide us before moving on or be found in spiritual droughts which have outcomes that can be even worse. The joy of the Lord is our emotional strength when producing restful thoughts in a quieted and peaceful mind. For when all is in order in the calm of life, one where God is seen beyond its storms, His love is able to give us deeper revelations of being held closer than before. His still warmth becomes that light of trust for navigating on. “The Lord is the anchor of my soul.”

The purpose of Messiah Christ is to do away with being a slave to our fleshly mistakes by walking in the darkness of sin. So that we may have eternal life while on God’s path of the Holy Spirit of light in a relationship with Him.

At the encounter of the burning bush between God and Moses, the great, “I Am,” introduces himself as the God of Abraham, Issac, and Jacob. The God of all of creation then tells him to remove his sandals from off of his feet. Moses’s ways of understanding things now yielded to humbling himself before God. For the ground that he was now standing on was the Holy Ground of God’s level ways, a firm foundation that he was able to build his life upon and grow. “For God resists the proud, but gives grace to the humble.”

When acknowledging that God has a better plan for our lives and completely surrender to it here, we have a conversion experience, too. Entering into a New covenant of trust with Him according to His purpose, we acknowledge the gracious gift He has for us called eternal life. The reason I made full mention of what God said in his introduction to Moses is that I want to illustrate how God joins us in every generation. Through an inner conversion with a path of connection of succession by righteousness, He guides us all. His Holy Spirit is that fine thread which pulls everyone together while at the same time drawing all closer to Himself.

Abraham is the father and head of faith in the reflection of how God, The Father, has a Son to come in His lineage by regenerative living blood. Issac is both a reflection of his father's character and a part of not only him but God as a miracle from Sarah, wife of Abraham. By natural means in her 90's, she was unable to have a child in her womb as it had dried up, she was barren. So as the signature foreshadowing of how the Christ was to come that Isaiah's prophesy, "A young maiden (virgin) will give birth to a child," would be credible. Later on, it was also a sign of continuance of Abraham's seed by any who would trust to become God's offspring by faith in the succession of God's graced, Son of God, at a later time.

Now, not only would there be a piece of The Father of creation placed in every man to spark nuclear fusion within each living eternal soul at conception, but the soul of mankind could be restored to light. His finishing touch of what was started off by Abraham and Issac could now be completed through Jacob's transformation to Israel as an example for everyone. For all men would be changed through conversion by this prototype of faith. Wrestling through faith, a gift of salvation could be obtained by grace and God has been consistent in weaving us into the fabric of a relationship with Himself in this same pattern. All growth in our faith like Jacob shall be established into the likeness of God's body of believers called Israel. For apart of Abraham's promise in addition to inheriting lands was to be given a people as numerous as the stars in the sky and sands on the shore. This was established by a covenant of Levitical priesthood which was to have perpetual sacrifices, but when pagan practices were introduced unbelief entered in that would eventually lead to it being broken over the course of time. God knew that a permanent covenant would be needed to replace it with a covenant contract that would last forever, one without a tainted bloodline that could perpetuate through regeneration.

This set the stage for a perpetual sacrifice of regenerative blood that was to come through the Messiah that all would spiritually live forever on earth as it is in heaven. The Christ was to be a High Priest, King, and Redeemer Sacrifice in the fulfillment of prophecy of the one who was to be God's Son. As being rescued back from darkness through God's New Covenant plan to do away with sin, men could now meet with God intimately throughout eternity. For due to Adam, the first man's transgression, all men were left in a state of imperfection where they could no longer approach a pure and glorified God. Now needing to be clothed by the same transformation that fashioned a change in the character of Jacob's name to Israel, all men through the Holy Spirit could receive a seal of baptism by the essence of this same spiritual change, making them approachable. The door is opened from darkness unto light as we are reconnected to the God of life by a New Covenant of promise. Yes, the tainted bloodline which ended in death has been redeemed back from Satan, giving us eternal life. However, we do not ignite until we get our glorified bodies in the resurrection in the bloodline of life through the doorway of the blood of Jesus Christ.

Before the different name and character change took place from Jacob to Israel through the line of heritage of His father, there was a half-brother to Issac named Ishmael that had to be sent away on an earlier occasion. A choice was made by Abraham while he was learning how to make spiritual decisions. Going along with his wife in a decision, made with an arm of the flesh without consulting God by the Holy Spirit of true light, his choice dimmed his mind through flesh which casts a shadow over all mankind unto this day. For rather than wait on the messenger who had originally come to him by God's Holy Spirit that prophesied he would have a son by Sarah, he disobeyed by entertaining other thoughts with spirits that would continue to invite double-mindedness. All men of faith are able to learn from his impatient thoughts of flesh by the confirmation of scripture, "While we were yet sinners Christ died for us."

Abraham's impatience caused him not to honor God's promise regarding how his child of promise was to come. For he entered into his wife's handmaid Hagar under Sarah's direction and begot Ishmael where a jealousy arose out of Abraham's lineage. In the end, Abraham chose God's child of promise to succeed him over the arm of his original fleshly choice, which is an example of how our fleshly minds are at war from connecting to God's Spirit unto this day.

Abraham started the succession of God's Holy Spirit here on earth from heaven by passing this Blessed Spirit onto his son of promise, Issac, whom he blessed by continuing to pass on the Holy Spirit with him having struggles of his own as well. Even though Issac had received the seed of light of God's Spirit to fight against spiritual darkness connected to the flesh, he was still able to infallibly lay his hands, in turn, on his son, Jacob, who would pass on the blessed Spirit of Holy Blessing that the seed of true light would continue on in succession.

The promise of this Holy Spirit of succession was to originally go to Esau, the older brother. Although, Jacob in fulfillment of prophecy on how the older would serve the younger swindled his elder brother out of his heritage of blessing that Esau was to receive. By tricking him to meet a fleshly desire over God's Spiritual one, he played the role of the devil. This was to illustrate how Jacob was flawed until his name would become Israel as an example to us. This is a further illustration that shows how God's Spirit was to be passed on by conversion experience from person to person after receiving the Holy Spirit at a future time to come.

Today, by God's same design of succession of the Holy Spirit, we are born of God's righteous nature through faith. Our faith becomes true light for us to recognize His moral compass that directs our path to Him in His kingdom. We inherit the essence of His heritage of eternal life when agreeing with God's plan of salvation. Then from out of the kingdom of darkness, we are translated, are being translated, and have been translated unto that gradual process of growing into God's kingdom of light.

Galatians 4:28 - 31, "Now you, brother, like Issac, are children of promise." But just as then the child of the flesh persecuted the child of the Spirit, it is the same now, but what does the scripture say?

"Drive out the slave woman and her son! For the son of the slave woman shall not share the inheritance with the son of the freeborn."

Therefore, brother, we are not children of the slave woman (of the flesh) but of the freeborn woman (of the Spirit).

A life without lies brings all into existence from out of the dark and onto the path of eternal light and life. Doors of identification in scripture open each time a precedent of truth is established as fact. This is where Jesus messiah touches and heals a person to redeem their souls by establishing a relationship of entry directly into their life and we are awakened to know that we were born to be alive. Knowing eternity happens through covenant here by commingling with His own blood in the blood of The New Covenant.

Once filled with the reality of heading towards God's complete truth, we remain in eternal life as a part of a growth process by grace till we are in this world and through unceasing prayer, no longer of it. Jesus takes a man with a deaf spirit of affliction and leads him away from the crowds where putting His fingers into his ears and saliva on his tongue, He looks up to heaven and groans, "Be opened!" The man's ears immediately were opened, his speech impediment was removed, and he spoke plainly. When identifying with what is seen in this passage, I know that this is possible by connecting with what has just been witnessed on earth as it is in heaven through His living bloodline. What this means is that by growing into maturity of being down here on earth while seeing into the light of spiritual stability in heaven, there are no more desires to join crowds of people who are in the unstable darkness of this world and its fleshly desires.

There is compulsiveness found in addiction that must leave us in order to experience the freedom found in eternal life. The testing ground of trial and error in the breadth of which we live is broken when our pride of reaching into unstable choices leave as well. For trying to steady myself in uneasy waves of what the variables in time has to offer, which is only an illusion of freedom, I am still left in the dark. I find myself falling into temptations here, but not from grace. For when landing on the truth, there is only light for us to practice what we understand within our sight to grow further by the stable light of eternal life.

With roots growing straight downward, we pierce the abyss in the depth of time and grow upward to pierce beyond Satan's veil of darkness. Although, appearing as light to a mind of flesh, without the Holy Spirit as our guide, we can get overcome till asking God to change us into the essence of His being here. Then by responding as Jesus did through identification with Him at this height, “It is written, Satan, I will worship the Lord my God alone,” then we are able to press through and beyond into eternity upon humble request and find a mindful rest.

The pinnacle of success is what this world has to offer in the disguise of a dark angel of light. We are free to enter the realm of eternal life by our love for God when we do not compare ourselves to Him without grace. For then our faith increases through identifying with heavenly light that now replaces all of darkness where we lacked in understanding.

I know this, for here there are breaths we can breathe in eternal life as opposed to suffocating in the doldrums that take place in the breadth. For all have received a sentence of death from the imposition of being imprisoned in time in their travels through this breadth rather than freely spend it in the freshness of a new and eternal life. AH! There is now fresh breathing space for me to experience in growing to comprehend new nuggets of truth in all that is new in eternity. Everything has been brought to light deep from within God’s love as He knows the condition we are in. At last, I find myself content in a life by the perpetual satisfaction of having breathing space. All has slowed down out of the commotion of this world to hear God’s voice of deeper love. For He said, “Be still and know that I am God.” I had to discover that God’s eternal seed cannot be planted in the properties of Satan’s domain. For only outside the length of time’s dark motion can

His seed be planted to sharpen us from within. We go against it by passing through friction, heat, and fire until there be the light of Christ as He is encountered as the still door which allows us to open the soil within our hearts to His life.

When heading towards the promised land, the children of Israel did not understand that it was to be an example of eternal life of what was to come by way of a New Covenant with God later. A permanent grace was to be ushered into the residence of our soul at last. For when dwelling in God's house, we can now anticipate His resurrection into a glorified body after leaving our dying bodies down here on earth.

Yes, by a living pure bloodline of sacrifice, we are enabled to pass through the door of Himself under the authority of His Kingship. Again, I must say that He has become our pure sacrifice, for Christ meets our needs as High Priest. Only The Son of God is able to fulfill all roles simultaneously, which builds relations as we grow on from when He first knew us. Before we were conceived within our mother's womb, He knew us as a part of the essence of Himself. Yet not only does He know us, but all people as every created thing is joined from conception of seed by His essence. Even us, before our own mother and father's conception, He was there, commingling with us as a part of the essence of Himself. For before we were born, God knew us and everybody else by His essence which is still omnipresent in all of creation.

So once born into His kingdom, we inherit eternal life within our soul after baptism and next into an actual incorruptible body when leaving the earth. A heavenly body is being formed down here on earth as our souls are prepared. It awaits us in heaven as we have been invited to dine with Him and sit at the High King's table forever. For eternal life is now and the only difference is once in heaven the corruption of our bodies are swallowed in death forever when we receive our glorified ones.

The tribe of Israel was to have a life that revolved around God's in a relationship with Him like Abraham. Though when tested in the breadth that passes through the heights and depth of time, only two of the tribe's spies who were sent in to spy out the land that the giants had taken were successful. The children of God's tribe could possess His land (as Nephilim had to be cleansed out of them because they hated mankind). Though most believed the lie that they were unable to do so due to their unbelief, a few did not. Two of the spies, Kaleb and Joshua, had faith which pleased God, the others were to drop in the desert over the course of forty years so that only their children would go in under the leadership of Joshua, who received the mantle of the Spirit of authority from Moses under God's Authority.

Those who accept God's authority receive the goodness of His peace and enter into the promised land of eternal life by growing from out of the breadth that passes through time. For good seed has been planted from out of the storm where hurricane winds in the motion of time batters all, though God's tribe of the living instead are now buffed to shine by all the winds of the spiritual them.

What is good brings us into a promised land of eternal life where the breath of life of Ah as in Abr-Ah-ham is available to those who can acknowledge the promise of Messiah. All else on earth are locked out of heaven and inherit evil to remain in conflict among the walking dead of this world. For the Messiah's intention is to restore all of mankind to their heavenly Father by spilling His bloodline of life for all that we would not have to. This included the two brothers, Ishmael and Issac, or any else who needlessly choose to war against God's family of the living. The devil is the only real mindfully invasive destroyer as, "We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities and powers of darkness and spiritual wickedness in the high places," which would keep one from knowing the truth of light and having a relationship with God.

Evil spirits seek to rob through manipulation, are murderous, and once they enter inside a heart they fog a mind, "Satan is a roving lion seeking who he may devour."

Everything done outside God's kingdom of peace leaves us with anxious spirits that feed off of our nervous energy, promoting Satan's veil of darkness rather than the light that wards off evil. "Everything that can be shaken will be shaken, so that which will remain will remain." God's kingdom is a kingdom of peace. Living a consistent life that is retained eternally out from the winds of time, we get planted and grow line upon line on an eternal stable base. A life that can be contained within is truly worth living when all of our feelings can fully be experienced in the truth of a balance that sparks God's glory of light.

Satan's kingdom has no stability or peace as it is always in flux and everything built on it has no stability with a foundation that will last. This wreaks havoc on our emotions as a lie is permanently unstable. Expending energy to keep back this discomfort through manipulations of deceptive pride by negating God's kingdom by distraction, deflection, disruption, and finally destruction from the truth of God's kingdom is evil.

The Apostle Paul said, "Take heed when you think you stand least you fall." For when the door is opened to believe you have arrived on a final plateau, complacency sets in to lock your vision inside yourself. Then looking away from the path of light and acting like the world, its characteristics of being drunk in spirits of the dark that cater to please the flesh are taken on again. "Where two or more are gathered in my name, there Am I in your midst." The tribe protects and isolation deflects, but as "God works all things for good for those who love Him, according to His purpose." He can use all our mistakes as teaching tools to His advantage and quickly restore situations and our minds to sanity if we continue to love to trust Him. God goes above and beyond what we are capable of asking as He trains us in the ways of righteousness for His name's sake, so never put limitations on Him. While I did not know God, in my pride, I tried to write a journal on my own that I could practice what I understood, but I lied. I destroyed it when I met God by way of His Spirit, for He was more excellent than I. Perhaps, He chose me to write because of this, but who can fully comprehend the ways of God.

When God is loved, we take on soft and pliable heart attitudes of His spiritual fruits of holiness in the face of adversity without behaving like the spirits of the world. For hardened hearts refashion to feed other spirits that hide in itching ears to hear the fleshly sound of hateful patterns that they long for you to agree with. Remember, even if you have something good to say, make sure your actions and spoken words line up with promoting the kingdom of peace and life. For due to the fact that the flesh always wants to justify itself by having your words fall to the floor to taste death, there is still the possibility that others will find life through them when recognizing not to remain dying in the dark. Satan's agents are very crafty and they know just how to discredit us in our stumbles of missing the mark. So we always must remain discerning to keep our hearts soft through loving God in prayer, otherwise, the love of self moves in to feed the flesh and harden a heart. "Be not conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewal of your minds." So, keep your mind steadfast on loving Christ and you will always walk away satisfied. For as you are what you eat, a glance at your eyes in the mirror will tell of who's looking back at you.

If you smile without trying, then you are well on the way to discover that you're receiving the mind of Jesus Christ. Look in the mirror now without delay as you've just been feeding upon God's Holy Spirit which does not return void.

Dark Anti-thoughts

Perseverance in prayer causes us to press in through darkness and gain the knowledge of understanding wisdom to obtain peace for perspective, this is why the Apostle Paul said to pray without ceasing. “The mind is kept at perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee,” and this is where the demonic world gets disrupted.

Prayer allows us to press in through the motion of the weave of the pattern of Satan’s thoughts of dark confusion to allow us access into the heavenly kingdom of light. Here we press out of these dark anti-thoughts that had our minds imprisoned among devouring dragon spirits within them. Yes, by slowing down out of motion, we enter through a flaming door of friction, heat, and fire into light, “Be still and know that I am God.” We obtain the kingdom of light by becoming in tune with the virtues in the character of Jesus Christ.

Focusing on the kingdom of heaven's light by rightly dividing how the word of truth became flesh by covenant shall always give us the nature of Holy Spirit fruit attitudes which deliver out of vices. When looking to the Holy Bible of the gospel of Jesus Christ, we are granted access into identifying with His personhood found in scripture that we may know Him in His kingdom.

“Be separated, come out from among them and touch not the unclean thing,” meaning anything that touches the flesh that is at war with the Spirit while in Satan’s domain of the world's system is as a fruit of the knowledge of good and evil where once ingested we're blocked as this fruit severs us from the kingdom of light. Yes, by pleasing the flesh with material possessions of man's wisdom, whether physically or spiritually, it blocks us from obtaining the mind of Christ. When we are truly, "In this world and no longer of it," no longer do we try to satisfy or please our flesh with the things of the dark realm but rather as citizens of heaven glory becomes our sight. "We are to take every thought captive under the subjection of Jesus Christ." For when the head is in the right place, the rest of us follow to ignite our thoughts to desire only things of heavenly light, proving what kingdom we are from.

Here, everything then becomes a gift to hold fast to that which is true with the understanding that God is blessing us with the reward of light to bring all to understanding. All we receive comes as a gift from Him which deepens our faith for a complete view of reality.

Confusion leaves and everything becomes clear to walk in the light as He is in the light that darkness no longer overtakes us. For now we can discern the path of peace to walk on and not veer as we can acknowledge God in all our ways with no longer leaning on our own understanding, for the path of peace is plainly experienced for us to not want to leave it any longer.

Those who desire to build up kingdoms here on earth at the expense of others have no concept of reality. "These people honor me with their mouths, but their hearts are far from me." This was said by Jesus about the religious leaders of the day who cared more about what they owned in the way of their positions and possessions which made them more comfortable on earth. Anyone who truly follows God is called to lay down their life here on earth in the name of peace because their kingdom is not of this world.

I myself have no desire to die. This is why I want to remind everyone that our war is not in the flesh, but on a spiritual level of things, “We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against powers and principalities of spiritual wickedness in the high places.” There are armies of dark spirits that are trying to get mankind's minds infiltrated to get them to kill each other so that the devil can get their souls. “Thou shall not kill,” is still one of God’s ten commandments. Remember that Jesus came to fulfill the law and not to abolish it.

Warriors are called to preach the gospel of peace and not take up weapons against each other, otherwise they serve themselves and not the God they are supposed to be serving. “Blessed are the peacemakers for they will be called the children of God.”

Unless someone is willing to make the ultimate sacrifice with their life to protect the innocent with an attitude of forgive them father for they know not what they’re doing, they should not be a soldier. Those who are soldiers of fortune and roll the dice to get ahead in the world's system, lack in integrity to understand who they serve on the battlefield. It is dangerous to practice what they do not understand as the end result can be hell to pay when truth is not in them.

God continues to weep for His creations. For men continue to abuse and murder each other and in so doing enter into the death of darkness and not the light of life. When hatred has a heart rather than the kingdom of light of eternal life, there is no embrace of God's love. All due to darkness, dragon thoughts are granted access to leave the heart empty and the mind blind. This is where the treasures of God's true nature of love, which desires us to have eternal life to dry His tears, becomes stolen by deception to destroy His heart at the suffering of mankind.

I want to emphasize: It is also a dark thought to believe that justification to continue sinning after receiving God's grace without an eventual transformation into living a holy life is okay. For the scriptures say, "It would have been better for a believer to have never been born rather than turn from the grace of God and return to his sin." As the word backslide is not in the new testament, the question comes to mind if a person turns away from the faith after supposedly receiving God's love, "Did they ever know Him in the first place?" For there is a counterfeit message of people trying to earn their way into heaven and miss the free act of grace by the flesh and blood of Jesus Christ. So, justification by faith opens the door for us to be transformed into a holy life as a work of the Holy Spirit upon request as a part of a Christ-centered relationship holds us in an orbit around Him.

Keep in mind though, "If the blood of Christ has the power to save us it also has the power to change us as to be bearing fruits of repentance as Jesus has said,

“For, can a fig tree bear olive berries?” Remember, “Friendship with the world is to have enmity with God.” “We have not because we ask not, for when we ask we ask amiss with wrong motives for the love of God is not in our hearts.” Finally, “A double minded man is unstable in all of his ways so let him not believe he shall receive anything from the Lord” as “The peace of God which surpasses all understanding and guards our hearts and minds,” only happens if our actions match our words in a relationship with Him.

I'll Be Good

The most common deception I've heard is, "I'll be good." It is one of the most profoundly evil statements to ever perpetuate a person into a confused state of mind. Just as a candle cannot blow itself out, neither can a corrupted person behave themselves with sincerity. A spirit of arrogance slithers by going unnoticed in this oxymoron as there is a contradiction when someone who is born in corruption believes that they can uncorrupt themselves within a carnal mind of flesh. What is evil cannot make itself good by trying, but by relying on a greater authority to refashion the essence of their being into another form as we did not fashion ourselves from the beginning.

If not taught how to converse with God in prayer at a young age, then a person is led to believe that they are in control of their destiny. Under this guise, they negate God's plan for their own life. Making free will choices, many draw their own conclusions from a position of being proud and not in humility. So, rather than maintain relations with God by continually asking Him to change them by His grace, a self-centered spirit of pride steps in where people remain stuck in the breadth while in the prison of passing through time.

Reading the Holy Bible allows you to go to Jesus to comprehend Him at the root of His vine of love and uproot demons. For an exchange takes place whereby one grows out of oneself where entering into the light of a relationship with God, there is no more darkness for minions to hide and they are cast out.

When led to believe that we are in control of more than the choice of our own free will, we interpret scripture in our pride and do not hear it in the original voice from God. For while the demons know scripture too and tremble, we meet them in the darkness of our pride as friends when lacking the humility to recognize them. The light of God's new covenant of marriage with Him to receive Him as groom for salvation becomes missed when it is not consummated by His regenerated resurrection bloodline of eternal life. I see this only happening when being led and guided into all truth by the Holy Spirit, which allows us to receive the seed of God's righteous fruit. "For just as the proud shall be humbled, he who humbles himself will be exalted." I had to learn not to roll the dice on a cheap grace, but come to an understanding of practicing what is understood. This is why it is necessary to, "Study to show thyself approved."

We must step away from the world's system, the fleshly pleasures that leave our souls depleted, and the devil's demonic voices which divide a mind. For when realizing there is no true understanding while only in the dark, a necessity to submit to the fact that all is dim becomes the path to see His light. Submission to God's voice is easy for the truly most beautiful of all brides, "The Church of Christ." God is good and when we are a part of Him, joined to Him as His bride, He can make us pure. For when our transformation is complete, our expressions will change from I can fix it to God can fix it or from I will be good to God is good. As the need to be in control is only a myth, trying to be in charge without God's authority did not work for Satan. This Father of Liars still lives in the misery of darkness. All authority has been set and belongs to God, for in knowing Him, all is understood by those who walk by the light of Christ.

As things become more desperate in this world, there is an increasing mistrust that is starting to happen. Things are becoming more difficult from knowing who to trust and not to trust in increasing occurrences that are being created within our minds in greater measures than before. It is actually to the point where everything needs to be investigated to know if a person can be trusted in business relationships as well as personal ones. Satan the great divider is trying to bring division through cunning divisiveness throughout the world.

Here is a lesson I recently learned on the wisdom of discerning voices. Soon after finishing off the Calington Castle nine book series, I was contacted by someone posing to be a literary agent, who then referred me to someone who claimed to be in a position to pitch me to a conventional publishing company and told me that although my books were edited, it had to go through developmental editing first. I was given rave reviews, but when I asked them about the story, they had the storyline right, but the names of the characters wrong. This should have been a red flag from the Lord, but I dismissed it believing that she had a large workload and might have gotten her stories mixed up. I then discussed with her about the film industry and she said the agent she was introducing me to would be more knowledgeable, which was not the case. This was a second red flag that I seemed to have missed when she started talking about traditional publishing companies, it blinded me to what was to come next. The agent lowered the price to accommodate an affordable plan, I paid out some of the money according to my current budget, but afterwards something didn't sit right. She just seemed to be too willing to please with the deal she was offering me, told me she was going to send me a contract after the partial payment. Was this deal just too good to be true? The offer to edit three books for less than the price of one. I ran a scam check on google and her name came up with someone saying that she should burn in hell. Yet, she had such a good website and seemed to have worked with so many other authors and the representative from the AMPTP was so legit, or was she? There were just too many red flags for me to keep my peace, so I sent her the following text messages:

“Out of concern, I am telling you about a scam report I saw on you, mentioning that you should burn in hell. It was very upsetting for me as it must be for you. I am reaching out to you as a friend the way I would want somebody to reach out to me if I was in trouble. Please do not harden your heart when I am offering you friendship. I was willing to work with you, I wasn't questioning your capabilities. I was questioning if you were a legitimate company after what I heard. If you ever want to talk about this topic so I can trust you are who you say you are, let's start at ground zero, I wish you nothing but blessings and peace, Rich.

PS: ground zero means I have to hear about who you are again on a deeper level so I can establish trust with you and build a business relationship from there.

Everything I am sharing is a part of the Calington Castle  premise. I practice what I preach, whether you're on the level or not. You are always welcome at Calington Castle. This is a part of my integrity.

R. A. Feller

Amanda, if you like my premise, you're going to have to now buy a copy of Calington Castle or I can send you a sample of some chapters from my show on my YouTube channel where I read from my book. Then you can see if you want to be further involved on the project. I am sorry about the fact that you now have to prove yourself as a person of integrity, but this is a sign of the time in which we live. Your friend from Calington Castle, Rich.

Amanda, I am also sorry to say that a part of building a relationship on a business level would be for you to return the deposit that I sent you. Until a later time, we have established trust. When I feel we have established trust then we can do business again. Or, if you are in trouble, you can keep the money and we can talk about how you ended up in the position you're in and how to bring you out of the darkness and fully into the light so you can understand how God is your friend as He is mine. As He has instructed me through His teachings to be yours. Rich.”

I believe that, “God works all things for good for those who love Him, according to His purpose,” by breathing the breath of life into us when we surrender our pride of leaning on our own understanding and ask Him for help.

Then we are open to hearing His voice and acknowledging Him in all our ways so He may direct our lives with purpose.

Unfortunately, when I spoke to Amanda again, she accused me of being a scammer and changed her story on the contract, saying that I was not going to get one until she received all of the money, and said we had an agreement. Well, the door to my castle is still open, but as of yet she has not come knocking. So I turned the matter over to God and told him whatever He decides is fine with me, knowing that whatever He decided would be for my benefit.

I guess when we fully lay our hearts on the altar of God, we will fully dwell on earth as it is in heaven.

Later on, I offered her a few chapters that she could work on as a test to see what she was capable of so that I could see if there would be any necessary changes. She never responded.

Addition: Amanrda responded by asking me for the balance that she thought was owed her a month later.

My Response: You sent me no contract that you said you would.

You never sent me a copy of the review you said you wrote for my fourth book in the Calington Castle series, and as for your website, how do I know it is not a fabrication?

I then told her, I have the right to protect myself just as you would have the right to protect yourself if you were in my position. I feel a person of integrity would respect this. Then I again offered my services to instruct her in the ways of the Lord. She called me judgmental and hung up her phone.

To all who read this, there is nothing wrong with being cautious no matter what another party may say. I would say that God was lenient with what was spent on the wisdom He taught me. The well concealed pride was flushed out as it comes before a fall, a lesson well learned. "Let the buyer beware."

My final course of action was to state my case on how I had some unexpected medical bills and needed to settle. I said she could keep part of the money for her trouble and send the rest back to my address. Now I must wait to see what happens.

If she is honorable in the future when I am in a better position financially, perhaps this would be someone I can trust to do business with.

Anxiety

I am not telling you to deny reality, I am telling you to see reality from the throne of God's point of view. He sees the unsteadiness of length in the breadth that passes through the wave of a weave within the heights and the depths of time that folds over on itself in a circular motion, giving our universe an infinite appearance. Studying reality for over forty years has caused me to draw these conclusions as this is how things have presently come into focus for me.

It takes an eternal perspective from outside the realm of time to see the incompleteness of its broken cycle that causes its faltering seconds to exist. Those who become anxious are outside of the eternal domain of completely having the still peace which gives the stability that comes from God's kingdom and presence.

If you find your life chaotic, it is because you're not in His kingdom of everlasting peace, but are at times in motion outside of eternity, as knowing God is to know eternal life. Every time we experience peace, it is because we are entering into cross over points between time and eternity by engaging the spiritual world.

However, a peace that you yourself promote or initiate with your own focus to force things into order around you has nothing to do with God the Almighty but Satan the God of this world. For, when everything revolves around God, He removes our burdens by entering His domain. His density of truth from His Spirit displaces the shallows of what is promoted against mankind by lying spirits, which places men under stress for the purpose of siphoning the energy of their life force away. Though when calling upon God, He intervenes through His greater Spirit which removes our stress, creating a platform of peace where He overshadows by the joy He brings from His overflowing love.

Plain and simple, when aware of God's love, we are made joyous. For replacing our being stressed out within chaos, we experience the stability of being calm. "The Lord is near. "Be anxious for nothing, but in all things, through prayer and supplication, let your requests be made known before God and the peace of God which surpasses all understanding will guard your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus." The question now arises, "What makes us anxious in the first place?"

"A double minded man is unsteady in all his ways and not let him believe, he shall receive anything from The Lord," as Jesus is the Prince of Peace. That means to me, if there is a spirit that is not bringing me peace, it is not Jesus that I am focusing on and this other spirit is going to rob me of my peace from His kingdom and cause me to remain in a fleshly pattern. This occurs when being drawn away from His light and eternal life and back into darkness where minions await to snuff out a life. I believe that anxiety can be a spirit that speeds one up, accelerating them out of calm to lose sight of focusing on trusting God. Then not having their needs met, they become drained in the long run. For when someone reaches out to steady themselves, reaching for something other than God for a quick fix, a spirit of pride enters in, in exchange, causing them to rely on themselves rather than crying out to get help from God.

Again, energy is never used up, it is either transferred or stored. So, if Satan can get us to reach out of eternity and back into time, we will become anxious instead of remaining stabilized in eternal life every time. “Beware of the wiles of the devil, for he is a roving lion seeking whom he may devour.” When we do not have balance between our thoughts and emotions, there is no light to continue on in harmony with God. This is why we must read the word of God everyday to stay in communication with Him. For when the light of His word comes into our darkness, we have sight on how to respond to Him through prayer and this holds us to a relationship, for we observe how He responds in love. Yet beware as human emotions have a tendency to please the flesh and wage war to try and block God’s Spirit.

There is a season to enjoy answered prayer, but it is a necessity to understand when to move on . . . Otherwise spiritual blessings can turn fleshly and rather than continuing to boast in the Lord with a walk of eternal life, we’ll encounter the taste of death again. “Idle hands are the devil's workshop,” meaning, we do things to escape boredom and amuse ourselves, which become addictions, without the light of God for direction. For Jesus said, “Nothing that enters a person from the outside can defile that person; but the things that come out from within are what defile . . . what comes out of a person that is what defiles. From within people, from their hearts (center or bowels), come evil thoughts, unchastity, theft, murder, adultery, greed, malice, deceit, licentiousness, envy, blasphemies, arrogance, folly. All these evils come from within and they defile.”

I have a friend who has been telling me that he experiences demons in his bowels and equates it with “gut-aches” he gets from time to time. Oh, how right he is! For the picture has become complete for me. What rises up out of the abyss from the depths of time enters our cores, which affect our emotions by causing them to rise up, as they hit us while in the testing ground of the breadth. For the Psalms say, “Our days are as a handbreadth while on earth.” Meaning, we only are tested while living in a piece of time. Are we going to serve the devil by believing we can handle life on our terms or turn to the aid of God for transformation?

So, if you sense someone is pressing on you to lose your peace, look to the light and invoke prayer. Express to them in a calm way that you are about to lose it and need to remove yourself from the situation at hand. Suggest to them that if they do not want to change it through joining you in prayer, you’ll have to excuse yourself.

“I will guard my heart lest I sin with my tongue at the gate while before the Lord.” When someone is not able to fully express themselves, they are going to act out by releasing their energy through their thoughts that are detached from emotions or with emotions on impulse without thoughts. In either case, people who are off balance are going to be off in their communication skills by lacking in focus when speaking. For they will be further driven into an already dark spiritually established pattern. These patterns are woven into a life over a period of years. For after a spirit has first gained a foothold, it moves on to gain a stronghold. “We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against spiritual wickedness in the high places.” Meaning, while striving to achieve success in the heights of limited time, after a spirit rises up out of the abyss into our guts, it affects us both emotionally and even physically. For while interacting with others who can be carrying invasive dark spirits in addition to the ones that roam the earth, be warned that their mission is to crowd our thoughts.

We are seduced into using our personal energy by entertaining any spirit that crowds out our thoughts. For when pressed out of balance through the use of emotions that try to rob us of keeping our integrity, we lose our focus here as well. Spirits can be blinding when bypassing our mouths to crowd our minds dim when emotional upheavals occur. Unexpressed emotions that do not fully meet our thoughts at the gate of our mouth will always cause us to be unclear, for without full expression we appear to babble. As when all expression leads to truth, our balance holds to remain with Christ who is a respecter of persons when kept in our sight.

Further sight from the angel writing through me allows me to see that from the depths of the abyss, spirits drive us into exerting our energy to achieve success in this world in our pride rather than go to God for help. We meet the angel of darkness disguised as an angel of light at the heights or crests of time when our thoughts become crowded by our emotions without realizing it. Although, this kind of success only lasts for a season from the use of its spiritual powers that we glean from with the use of off balanced emotions and thoughts that see darkly. For if we were walking in the balance of light, as there is stability here, we would see what manner of dragon spirits are biting at us and turn them down by calling on God. Just as Jesus was offered all the world by the devil, so are we by trying to rise to the pinnacle of success this world has to offer which replaces a relationship with God's love in exchange for this lust.

So, when we choose to follow in the footsteps of Jesus, by asking Him to work the nature of His kingdom of peace in us, spirits attack to heighten anxiety within. What caused us to live in darkness to feed on our spiritual energy does not like it when we have peace. It will try to pump additional thoughts into our mind as fiery darts, thoughts that are not are own, trying to make us feel more uneasy. Spirits do this by expending their energy to speed up our thoughts as to drive them onward that we might forget the light of God.

Once out of God's pattern of light, it is an evil spirit's hope that we would forget to call on The Lord. It wants us to forget His peace or remember that we're loved, so that we would return to the lie of a life without Him. For it can feed on our frenzy of drowning in its swirl around us and with each feeling of uneasiness it gets stronger. These real vampires leech off of and enter the darkness of where minds go dim, draining us of our energy through manipulating our choices. Then reaching out for things other than God's bond of love that is able to meet all our needs, a bite is taken that leaves us depleted. For, "God is our very present help in time of need," and a rewarder of those who would diligently seek Him when calling upon Him in the remembrance of being His child. I have discovered that truly trusting in God allows us to be comforted and causes anxiety to leave.

In summary: Anything that leads us outside of God's Kingdom will rob us of the energy of His peace. For just as Peter sank in the waves of water when taking his eyes off of Jesus, so in life do we.

From Coping to Kingdom Prayer

Down here on earth, “Life” is difficult. So, man in his mind strategizes by conjuring up ideas on how to survive each day. This is where the field of psychology coins the phrase of coping mechanisms that uses a dim mind when passing through the wave of time while existing in the testing of breadth. For we remain locked in our pride when attempting to solve our own way out of confusion whenever reality is unclear. There are also defense mechanisms, which can negate the opening of God’s light by our guardian angels when turning to attacking demons, which unconsciously or consciously blocks the truth that would enlighten and free our minds. Yet, it is by grace that a mind develops in stages as we are saved, are being saved, and will be saved by acquiring further light to cast out what lives in the confusion of dark thoughts.

We are being built up to edify and encourage others in the church to draw nearer to God’s light, whether by prayer or in our stages of growth to maturity as well. I found out that the number of doctors in the psychiatric world who serve the Lord are few and far between. Though once God’s good seed is planted in the garden of our hearts, we grow to join our minds with an eternal awakening of full expression, which comes from the gates of our mouths while at peace. Yes, we are sparked to meet with The God of Truth for an enlightened and sound mind by His Spirit as His love calms us when talking to and persevering to spend time with Him. “I will guard my tongue lest I sin with my mouth while before Him.” For, not realizing that He is always before us, we speak into the dark with actions of reaching for other things and miss His light.

Paul says to “Pray without ceasing, seek peace and pursue it with a sincere faith, a clear conscience, and a pure heart,” this happens while keeping our focus on the light so that darkness does not overtake us. We join ourselves to the kingdom of heaven and know eternal life by the love of the Father, which happens through the living bloodline of Jesus Christ. Miracles happen here as heaven remains open to inspire our souls and strengthen our mortal physical bodies by remaining in eternal life in the enjoyment of God’s presence even while on earth.

Here is an example of what I am describing. Early in the morning, Shirley had fallen on the floor and could not get up due to her Parkinson’s disease. She used all her strength and exhausted herself. Finally, she called out for help. I woke from my sleep and heard her call from my room. When I, too, arrived at the scene, I tried using my physical strength to aid her as well. Then I heard her discouragingly begin to call on Jesus for help.

The bible verse, “I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me,” came out of my mouth. I began to encourage her in prayer, repeating the verse over and over again. When the two of us came into agreement by faith, I sensed God’s presence really strong as though a window of heaven had been opened. I next started to sing the Psalm. “Sing unto the Lord a new song, let His praises fill the temple. He is the King of kings and the Lord of Lord's, bow down before Him. I then got a visual image in my mind of a king extending his golden scepter, granting her permission to rise in his presence. I then sang again, but this time I felt led to replace the words "bow down" with "rise up" before Him. I then noticed Shirley to be on her feet and helped her climb back into her bed while God's Spirit was upon her.

Yes, God answers prayer when He encourages us to go beyond coping. For He calls to us to call upon Him for help as "He is an ever present help in time of need," when aware of His presence to answer His call as His love is always calling to us. I next remembered, "Where two or more are gathered in my name, there am I in their midsts." I believe it is because when true light agrees with true light in Jesus' name, He sparks forth His truth in brilliance of glory. This ignites a Holy Flame that burns away darkness, opens a door to heaven, and allows Him to let His Holy Spirit enter into any situation which might trouble us. I further believe that God Himself orchestrated this incident into being to give an example of what I was writing about and to give us a spiritual weapon by strengthening our faith.

"God inhabits the praises of His people." The Spirit of the living God gives eternal life that we may know Him in His kingdom of peace. "The wages of sin are death, but the gift of God is eternal life." There we have it. We either miss God in life by coping with our own devices and resources or call upon the Lord by always walking with Him. When in the enjoyment of His company of presence, He is not slack in His promises to those who accept Him into their lives as a truly real friend. He is easy to find when building our life upon Him. For His foundation is firm and the peace of His Kingdom's presence rests upon us. An eternal perspective happens within whenever we are mindful that He is holding our hand. The same way He was with Moses while in battle when his arms were held up to remain in the air, for on behalf of Israel, his arms were held up to keep his hands in god's and they prevailed. He supports everyone who is with Him in action and in word. "Call upon Me for change and I will change you into a garment that will reflect My image of light, any who choose to keep Me in their heart shall find favor within My continual sight."

"Change me Lord Jesus and I will be changed to find favor in your sight."

The Hour is Late

The hour is late and time is short, but do not be driven into compulsion to save the world and burn out by exhausting your flame. Instead, ask God to manage your time and you will be like the five wise virgins who trimmed their wicks at the last hour. A trimmed wick does not burn out quickly as it conserves strength to pace itself for the endurance of the race. This is when the bride is able to meet the bridegroom at his return without missing Him. For they did not have to go for more oil to find their way, but diligently and patiently met and entered eternal life at the door of Jesus Christ. So, know your limitations and you shall remain in God's kingdom of peace, avoiding chaos and Satan's domain. Dragon minions long for you to veer from the straight and narrow path. Their desire is for you to lose sight of the light and get bit by having your energy drained while in the dark.

“For many will come on the last day saying, Lord, did we not cast out demons in your name, heal the sick, and do wonders? I will turn to them and say on the last day, depart from Me you workers of iniquity, I never knew you.”

Come alone, find peace with Me in a quiet place and rest awhile. “Learn of Me. My yolk is easy and my burden is light.” We are called to be in this world and not of it, so we must learn from God Almighty who guides us. Learn to be silently alone with Him while in a crowd, then you will walk hearing God's voice alone.

Have peace with Christ and be sustained by Him in all things as knowing that He is providing for you in all allows you to live in eternal life.

We must understand that God owns everything and be grateful for what He gives us. Then in joy you shall have strength as you realize you're looking in the face of God. For He is the one that embraces you, having the love of a Father's heart. You know you're alive with the life He brings, for when looking in the mirror by the passion of His love, the true fire is seen to really burn within the eyes.

When facing the beast of this world do not smile at it, but see through it. For beyond its lies, the truth of God's delivering love devours death with life. I am happy to be alive by the regenerative living blood of Jesus Christ, which gives me His mind inside. For as the sting of death has been removed, now I walk in the light of sanity, eternal life.

Love

I can remember getting hit by little drops of water from my father's vigorous splashes, which I equated with love when he washed up after work. He had entered the bathroom while I sat on my wooden red and blue planked potty bench with its stainless steel catch basin fitted in the small strips of glossy painted wood at its center. Every now and then, I remember this at first rain and I am brought back to the age of four once again.

I bring this up, because in the days of my child rearing, children were to be seen and not heard. These drops of water are the earliest encounters of touch that I received from my father; they felt good as they added up to affection. This was the closest I got to him as in these moments a bond between us took place, at all other times he was off in the distance.

Looking back, I believe that God was revealing to me, how by his mercy, He replenishes the earth with rain droplets inside a cycle of love.

My dad's routine was to come home from work, wash up, take a nap, have dinner, and read the newspaper. Working in a department store he owned with his two brothers, he had become the buyer for the store. Meaning, he did most of the work and had little time after inventory, stock work, and waiting on customers with his two brothers for anything else. It was also rumored that his older brother had deep pockets and felt he was entitled to more than his share being the eldest. Later on, his greed caught up with him and he went to jail for buying stolen merchandise. His other brother was a simpleton and did what he was told by the eldest. This created all kinds of problems and undo stress for my father.

One time, after a water main break on 125th street on Amsterdam Ave. in New York City, the city was sued due to a great loss of merchandise and my father was instructed to handle the case. While it was pending, with my father's brother's son's entering the business, starting to feel entitled to boss him around, along with no camaraderie from his brother's, he found himself in an unpleasant situation.

Another offer was made for them to buy the building the store was in by the landlord, but they decided against it. Fire bombing of neighboring stores by the Black Panthers was also par for the course, making a bad situation even worse. Finally, my dad decided to go off on his own and find his way when the building was sold. The older brother liquidated all the merchandise, his other brother took the cash register with all the money and my father was left with nothing but his hard work ethic and business sense. He had contacts with wholesalers, now all he needed was a product. He connected with Fitzgerald Underwear Corp. and sold women's lingerie.

A few years passed and when my dad's brothers came to him looking for work, he decided against it. Then the courts finally ruled in favor of Feller's Department Store on the lawsuit with the city, the case that my father was handling. My father was awarded the money and now had more than his brothers combined sales of cash in the register and liquidation of the merchandise.

When his brothers found out, they became incensed and sued for the money. “Man plans and God laughs.” For after the judge heard the story of how my father received nothing from the store, he ruled in my dad’s favor. His brother’s ended up losing everything in legal fees.

I told this story to give the family dynamics of what I was raised in. For having a distant father and left hungry for affection, I ended up in distant love relationships. I never knew close intimate family ties nor the bond of love, which is what was needed to know the difference between an enemy or a friend. I entered a state of confusion that made it hard to understand the differences between what was right or wrong as well. For having become angry enough to protect myself with boundaries that kept other people away, I was deemed socially inappropriate.

Instead of receiving love, I got into fights without knowing why and then no one wanted to be around me. My boundary of anger grew to become bars that imprisoned me in a darkness I could not find my way out of as I got older. Trapped inside myself, isolation was no friend. I can assure you in any story you wish to implore that emptiness was no friend but a blindness that caused me to abuse myself and others more and more. I needed affection and all I knew were distant relationships until some of my friends who were christians started to pray for me while in high school.

One day while sitting alone, a light pierced my darkness with a pinhole of light which was to become more intense beyond the dark veil in my mind. It would go from dimness to varying stages of getting brighter, for gaining in clarity was to come. I was discovering God in stages and as I did my relationship with Him started to grow. What started out as a thread was being woven within me to become a full garment through each new experience I started to have with Him.

I wish I could say it was this simple, but along my path of journeying with God, I found myself on a religious tangent that I had to grow through as a stage of my growth. Looking back to my early teen years, I remember searching for truth in the nature of all things on an undeveloped piece of public property that was a sort of no man's land. Splitting open rocks and building out an area on this property, I made my own secret place that no one knew about where I would go and meditate by myself. My secret hiding place would allow me to discover much about things, but not knowing the God of eternal life.

Later on when I finally discovered that there was a God by attending bible studies in a park where many teens gathered to get high on drugs as well, my search became how the God I was reading about was going match up against all the other philosophies of the day? What was really true in the nature of all things and which truth would I search out for the greatest understand of what life was about?

With my concept of Jesus as Messiah only half taken in, I started to serve Him while not knowing that I was really seeking God to earn my earthly father's affections while relating spiritually to the Lord. For I was being led to believe I was gaining favor with my Lord while what I was really doing was looking for my earthly father's physical attention. I became works-orientated and accelerated into getting my Heavenly Father's approval in an earthly distant pattern till I realized the carrot I was chasing at the end of a stick, like a donkey, was moldy. I came to understand this when I comprehended more of God's light while coming out from my darkness of this world's philosophical system.

Practicing a religious addiction to escape the rejection of my father's distant pattern had nothing to do with serving God out of love. Finally discovering that God is an individual, up close and personal, He is no longer distant to me. For, I have and am learning to walk in the light as He is in the warmth of His loving light that the darkness of distance with its chill between us no longer overtake me anymore.

People do the best they can. Yet, trust me, God always has a better plan for you than what you could ever imagine. "For God works all things for good for those who love Him according to His purpose." The Lord knew each of us before we were ever fashioned in our mothers womb and that those who acknowledge the need of His blood can receive His intimacy which was meant before the fall of man. He longs for the embrace of us all, so turn to Him and find His affections while there is still yet time or you will perish outside of Eternal life because of not being married to Him, but what beholds your eyes and hands in the realm of the breadth while in time. God wants to give you the desires of your heart, choose Him and you will be stilled to be content forever.

Jesus said, “If you lose your life for my name's sake you will find it.” It took me quite awhile to realize that I was dead for me to come alive in, Jesus. “The dead in Christ shall rise again.” Yes, I became dead to this world and what it had to offer. For after being born into a world where trying every of anything ran me into dissatisfaction as a river run dry, my life, like a drought, would cause the ground within my heart to crack. I was ready to sprout as a green sprig with a new life from its dust and be born again into the kingdom of heaven outside of the earth. In this way, I could join the others who were in the world and no longer be of it by being bonded to the Lord of love and mercy's vine through Jesus Christ.

In 1979, I started to hear about the Lord and had many spiritual experiences at the same time, along with the studies of Zen Buddhism while in college where I encountered transcendental meditation (TM) as well. Unfortunately, these kinds of spiritual connections, although pleasurable at first, can lead to demonic possession as they open the door to the soul to invite unholy spirits in.

Discovering that there is a world outside my handbreadths, which at one time passed through time for me, allowed me to connect with God directly into the stillness of eternal life. Contentment is exciting. Though when it was all about me, I had nothing to do with knowing God, only deception, as Satan comes as an angel of darkness disguised as an angel of light. Remember, the closer you draw to God, the more compassion you have for others as when your life starts to revolve around Him, you share in His burden for the lost in humanity while seeing from His heights. You actually share in His tears, knowing that all are his children and can see Him weeping to know each one personally, while desiring to bring them to fruition as, “Our Father.” I feel the Spirit of His heart for others within my soul in this way.

When I first came to know the Lord in one of my earlier experiences, it was like powerful electricity was flowing through me as though I put my hand on a third rail while speaking in tongues as described in the Bible. Another brother and I were set ablaze at the same time. I was in a lock of ecstasy with God in what I thought was a work of the Holy Spirit. Then the Pentecostal Pastor of the church I was in while the midst of this mighty wind shook us out of it. Coming back to my senses, I felt very disappointed as did the other brother. It was as though He disrupted a work of God. I later dismissed this thought as I figured that the pastor knew what he was doing. The other brother, around a week later, burned down his girlfriend’s house for breaking up with him and he went to jail for arson and murder when her mother died. I, on the other hand took a different route instead.

Soon after, the Holy Spirit visited me in my sleep and gave me the vision of a tender green sprig, sprouting up into a vine out of dry gray cracked ashen colored ground. As it grew, green doily curls became purple and bore large clusters of purple grapes, suddenly the face of a man appeared. Waking out of a heavy sleep, I walked out of my room and saw the face that had been in my vision on the night before. It was on the burial shroud of none other than Jesus Christ, being shown on PBS TV for the first time.

A few years later, married and out of college, I came to know the world had nothing that I was interested in for everything I touched left me dissatisfied. After attending a Holiness church under the leadership of David Wilkerson, being dead to the world system became easy. It was now time to lay the ax to the root and put my flesh to death so I could be grafted into the living bloodline of knowing God on His vine of eternal life. Yet in the word's of The Apostle Paul, "Oh sinful man that I am, which wars against my Spirit within the members of my flesh. What I will to do not, that I do. Yet it is not I who now sins, but my wretched rotting body full of death."

There is a gradual digging down beneath the soil of the flesh till we get deep enough to unearth all the patterns of the world that has settled upon us from its layers of dead man's bones. I have learned that the more I forsake the world and what it has to offer in my diligence to seek God, the brighter I shine from the eternal life of His nature. He showers me with the affections of His inner love's embrace. "God is a rewarder of those who diligently seek Him."

Beyond the recesses of all that is flesh, there is a breaking through to the other side; out from time and into eternity. This is where, "We are rooted and grounded in the love of God," for us to grow and pierce far beyond the angel of darkness disguised as an angel of light in the spiritual heights of time. I have found that once our foundation stabilizes, our desires turn to heavenly things. We now feed on the hidden manna from beneath the mercy seat within the arc of the covenant, tabernacling to commingle with God Himself within us with His transforming power. Yes, through the Holy Spirit, powered by His Eucharistic living blood, we are being, will be, and are transformed by not only the renewal of our minds, but inside the essence of our eternal souls through Him within ourselves. While in His presence, the cherub angels hover over the Holy blood of Christ, giving proclamation to His Holy presence during this Holy event of the light and life of all men entering into us. He shines brilliantly from the door of an open heaven while on His Holy throne. Then back into the mercy seat within His mighty power extending to our hearts, His Holy presence makes this happen to where we are able to return our affections. His Holy seed now meets with us by the gentleness of His non-perverted grace in recognition of remembering His New and Holy Covenant Promise that the New Testament testifies of.

We are not Holy ourselves as it is the Holy Spirit that enters into us through water baptism, which redeems us from being Satan's property after being prepared by the way of the blood of the Lord. Him entering into us by the grace of His regenerative blood makes us Holy. In each transformative change within the fibrous essence of our beings, our faith is proved as we move forward by reason of trusting God. Remember, just as Rehab, the prostitute, from within the walls of Jericho testified of God's covenant by her actions when hiding two Israeli spies, proving her faith. In this same way God's Spirit of truth joined her to His eternal bloodline, by the promise of these spies words of instruction, which she carried out, a woman like her in the New Testament did the same. Mary Magdalene also had a similar experience after having seven demons cast out of her as well. She was joined to the New covenant by believing to trust Jesus by faith and this promise is still good for us today. For any who back up their words of repentance with their actions are transformed by focusing on the truth of God, which leads one to change direction and follow His instructions of now being eternally alive as they continue on with Him.

Deceptions had us at war with each other through personal differences, but once recognized, we came out of the destructive forces of darkness to make choices that could see into a new kingdom of light. Now by receiving the power of the regenerative resurrection bloodline of Jesus from the New Covenant, all who repent meet God in marriage. For new actions within a heart testifies beyond words as proof of His given authority.

“You have not because you ask not. And when you ask, you ask amiss. For you do so with the intent of personal gain.” This is a spirit that does not acknowledge the kingdom of an eternal better life. There are those who prefer to live in darkness rather than in a place of light. Make no mistake, it is the bloodline of Jesus Christ's New Covenant that brings victory. Then we can truly walk while under the power of His authority by faith, trusting that God is our true God with a connection between our minds and hearts as they're being sewn together by the Holy Spirit. This is the picture of how God is a God of mercy with His creations as He knows of all our frail and delicate natures when turning them over to the reigns of His authority when we see them within ourselves.

In 1982, I died to the world and a lot of flesh where I am still growing upon my roots from the firm foundation of Jesus Christ. Now I'm wrestling spirits of wickedness in the high places while being pulled from the waves of time by continuing to hold onto the hands of my very intimately loving Lord and savior along the way. One day, I shall be pulled right into my glorified body and I no longer shall see through a mirror darkly, for I shall know Him face to face while standing in glory before Him.

My Eucharist Miracle at the Adoration of the Host

You may be wondering how I am able to give such accurate depictions of my life. I would not know either except by the incident that happened to this Jewish believer in the Christ my Lord and King. I went from Judaism into Protestantism on a search for an answer to find more light of the truth as stability still seemed to be lacking in my life. What I experienced in a confused state of mind from being fragmented in a melting pot of life, even with all the experiences I had something seemed to be missing, everything I saw still did not add up. It had now become apart of my quest to find more answers and this landed me in the Catholic Church. After much prayer and consideration, in 2006, I listened to my betrothed who invited me to be with the Charismatics on a conference and retreat.

Under the direction of Father John's healing ministry in the Catholic Church, I attended a charismatic circle of the host at ST. Alphonso's retreat house. After the conference, masses, and meals. Father John had a healing prayer circle where many attended and were healed through the laying on of hands and other manifest signs of God's Spirit, speaking in tongues, etc. I first sat down with everybody else on Saturday evening in a large room with about 300 chairs and large table at the center. I was wondering what was going to happen after finding a seat with my betrothed, just then Father John walked into the circle. He carried out a large golden starburst with a Holy Eucharistic Host enclosed in a glass at its center. I saw that when people were falling over in droves, I wondered what this strange phenomena could be. What was throwing people to the floor in droves? This was something I most certainly was curious about. With the humble stance of just wanting to understand what was happening, I approached the golden starburst (monstrance) of the body, blood, soul, and divinity of my Christ. I touched its golden base and as I raised my head to look upon the host, the sky grew dark. “Sky, where was I?”

I can only describe being at Golgatha, which I had read about in the Bible. The scene was made manifest with me being there as apart of it. I saw the thieves in the background upon their crosses and me taken into the wonderment of it all, I realized I was standing before my badly beaten Christ, my Savior, at the foot of the Cross with his head in shadows tilted right. The sky, dismal with brown hues to its color-tones.

The next thing I saw was a drop of His blood, hanging from the bottom of His ribcage, which spoke loud and clear with the dunamis of its power. For when His blood fell and hit me with an overwhelming bliss in waves that exploded throughout me, hitting me with His divine peace, a seed was planted and has been growing to continue me on my journey. Coming as an answer to end all the questions that had not yet been known while restoring my soul, focus came and will come till fully complete within His light. I opened my eyes to a crowd of onlookers watching over me saying, “He’s back now, he’s okay,” with an ecstasy of sheer joy upon my face.

What I have unknowingly till knowingly known, comes into being and yet continues to unfold.

Now that I knew what everyone else had experienced, nothing more needed to be said. Until, two years later at a different healing retreat it was asked of me, “What happened to you at the Adoration of the Host?” When I answered, this man’s jaw dropped and he said that I should tell everyone else. “I thought that everyone had this vision upon meeting The Christ in The Adoration of the Host,” was my response. Right now, I am at a jaw dropping experience of my own with the epiphany of how I have had a direct encounter with the regenerative living blood, slain from the foundations of the earth, Jesus Christ, with healed emotions. I grieve the sufferings of what my Lord had to go through partially, for with the strange sickness that is upon me that makes my lungs feel like they are collapsing as I gasp for breadth, I better understand the verse, “We’ve been praying through for a night, but joy cometh in the morning.”

My High Kings blood, breathed into me from when I was transposed back into time to the foot of the cross and back again, how else could I know eternal things. Am I, a living Eucharistic miracle? Could this be how I survived a widow maker heart attack with 95% blockage in the (LAD) artery with a less than 1% survival rate without ending up in a comma 2022? I pray that the Lord keeps me alive to further His glory as I enjoy watching people light up with eternal life on earth as it is in heaven.

Body, Blood, Soul, and Divinity

The sorrowful passion of The Body of Christ had a walk of purity that was different than mankinds, for He was fully human by Mary and fully divine by God. Set apart as God, “The man, Christ, Jesus,” he had the mission of keeping His blood pure, carrying it untainted while here on earth. For our souls needed to be cleansed and purified from the sin of where they were missing purity by Him. In accepting this premise, He becomes the door for us to enter in with Him. Here our lives are redeemed as He became the offering. For by Him, suffering perfection as our guide into eternal life by humbly asking God to be changed, we enter a journey into progressively knowing Him. His perfect walk, which testified of Him being righteous, without sin, along with the addition of His pure and regenerative living blood fulfilled His mission of redemption for all.

The reason behind the power of the resurrection had to become authenticated for us. Everyone can now inherit His bloodline that lives forever through the adoption of eternal life. For His blood would mean nothing without a sinless walk while here on earth to complete the passion of this purpose to redeem us all.

Jesus cracked the realm of time by replacing what was dark in death with light and life by his own regenerative blood, which had originally sparked all of creation into being, even before Adam’s fall into death. The stability of God is the light on a hill, revealing the way to go and meet with God’s divine nature and providence as He is the same from age to age. For as I, myself, persevere more deeply into eternal life within, I'm discovering a walk that sees His Kingdom outwardly in place of this world to know the full measure of His love.

Here are the stages of growth into eternal life. In Psalm 139 verses 13-16, it is discovered, "You formed my innermost being that knit me in my mother's womb. I praise you because I am wonderfully made." Just recently, a flash of light was discovered at conception between a sperm and an egg. God takes a piece of Himself and fashions us together in a threefold cord with a part of Himself to form a living soul. Then suffers us to make a choice to return to Him through baptism from out of darkness within the spirits of the realm of time in the world in which we live. He waits to be joined to us again while we're in the dark as his completion is missing within us while in Satan's clutches. For when His essence is within us, we becoming His children brings Him joy. "For we love because He first loved us."

Once, He as our Father wept over us while longing for our embrace, but now that all can completely be joined in union again, His hope of showing mercy remains. God knows when we miss the joyful choice of completely joining to His presence, "For though I make my bed in Hell, Thou are there." If we choose not to listen to His voice because we are a part of Himself, He knows where we are. For, "Before we are conceived in our mother's womb God knew us."

“My very self you know. My bones were not hidden from you when I was being made in secret, fashioned in thee depth of the earth.” We were with Him before we came into being. As we were originally created to be “The crown of God’s creation,” all plant, animal life, and consistency of atmospheric pressure in our blood (blood pressure) are subject to the laws of earth and outer space. We are pressed into one living body with the addition of God’s very essence to form a nuclear living soul, created to walk in fellowship with Him.

Look very carefully at the words, “...fashioned in the depth of the earth.” We are planted in our mothers womb as we are made out of earth and water. We are all very well crafted terrariums that contain a living soul to grow spiritually. For how do you explain how brains look like cauliflower or we have digestive enzymes like a Venus Fly Trap plant? We have tributaries like rivers in our veins, our brains have lightning fast thought impulses, and we have an oxygen system that sustains life, not to mention gasses within our digestive system that erupt like volcanoes, etc... Yes! We were planted in our mothers womb to grow like plants and grow like animals, only we have the very essence of God within us, giving us living souls by his breath of lightning fast light with the kiss of His crown of life upon our heads.

“Your eyes saw me unformed; in your book all are written down. My days were shaped before one came to be,” as God’s creations, we belong to Him and no one else. For we came from Him as a part of Him, how else could He know us before we were born or be omnipresent throughout us all in the world to know what is happening with everyone at the same time?

We grow physically in our mothers womb, but are really in the darkness of Satan's realm and spiritually enter the constrictions of his domain. Growing from physical birth, our spiritual senses start to then further develop in the larger space of the world in which we live. Once slowed in stillness while in enemy territory, through redemption and baptism, we must break free of the deceptive light that has us joined to the properties of darkness. As we move along, we remain in a state of confusion until either our life end's or our eyes are opened to the light of eternal life to enter in. Without understanding God the way I was raised, I tried the every of anything to experience freshness in this world to have newness in life. Though when my new experiences grew stale, I realized something was terribly wrong. Spiritually, I found myself limited in this world where perpetual distractions kept me from seeing beyond physical sight and here within social structures of human life, I was left feeling empty inside. So, now I was ready for something else, beyond the kingdom of where things would not grow stale, I was ready to be born again with another experience, but where? What was I to try next?

I was clueless to the fact that I was more than flesh and blood. Yet was I ready to be born anew with another choice of trying something I had not tried before, there had to be something else to try. So, I continued my search to the question of, what else is there that I did not already try? It was as though I was in a Jack-in-the-box in the midst of the noise of the world looking for a place to pop out, but how or where would I find a place to go? Then an old enemy approached me who now seemed different. He was friendly and joyous, boy did he change or at least enough for me to become interested in with what he had to share.

It was about God and his new spark of light intrigued me. Thank God, for His Spirit alone. For not only did He let me discover His word in the Holy Bible, but how to discern it correctly over the course of my first twenty-five years with Him. After that, I was ready to fully discover Him in my pen and then came the messengers of God. Angels would possess me with joy and deepen my relationship with the Lord at the same-time. I now enjoy the peace of God's presence whether sharing Him with others or just abiding in Him. He truly has become second nature to me as when walking through my daily routine, I find myself conversing with and thanking Him more and more. Then when I meet Jesus face to face I can recognize Him as an intimate friend according to His character and not have to ask, "Are you Jesus?" Satan is an excellent counterfeiter and I do not want to be tricked into knowing the wrong one.

Walking with God, His love is becoming more fervent, too. For in this way, I do not notice losing interest in fleshly desires or worldly pleasures falling away. Obedience to God's "will" has become an act of love where in seeing Him in place of all else, there is no sacrifice while walking intimately with Him. It is not a matter of giving things up anymore, for there is nothing else that is greater than God's love.

In service to the Lord, if you pay very close attention you'll hear the differences between messenger angels that can discourage or encourage. There are actual voices that can be discerned through other people and messages within our thoughts when well in tune with the spiritual world. In creation everything now has a message that testifies about the Creator as well.

My studies have taken me on a fantastic journey of discovery. I learned that everything happens in cycles of circular motions that compliment each other in creation as, "All of creation testifies of Him." God fashioned everything to be self-sustaining and not die but last eternally in the garden of the living.

The bible says for us to reason together and not kill each other. Plants, animals, and mankind, all reproduce after seeds or eggs of their own kind and are planted back in the earth to grow to reproduce more. Plants, animals, and the life of men and women all start out within the dark even though they were originally made to shine and thrive. Mankind and animals have breakaway roots and become mobile, outside of tumbleweeds, plants do not. A moveable plant swept about by the wind in creation, I feel is a precursor link of creation that led next to animals before man.

There are many messages that we can learn by observing nature. One, I have observed is that depending on the roots of the environment that surrounds a plant, that plant or animal will be affected spiritually from the roots in which they draw. The soil of the environment will affect the flavor of that fruit just as an attitude behind an action.

There is also the water cycle, the cycle of orbits, seasons, and soil. They all work together and complement life, so why then do we die? The spiritual cycle of this world is in a broken and fallen nature. Until baptism, we do not contain the Holy Spirit which reconnects us to God for a true light of understanding eternal life. Without God's Spirit, there is no comprehension to enter our minds and hearts in a balanced way. Though God's spoken words always yield to a power of creation of eternal life, for both His Spirit and word are truthfully honest and pure.

Going from true light to true light allows us to see things from an eternal life's perspective. That is why we continue to walk going from glory to glory after Him. We have tasted and seen that the Lord is good, better than what the spirits of this world has to offer or we would not follow Him.

In eternal life, everything continues to thrive and grow with a newness and freshness of it as our God is a God of the living and not the dead. The Holy Spirit now connects us back to God through an immersing and emerging up out of the water, this is called baptism. All the cycles are brought back together by unifying us back to divinity through the light of God meeting us again here. Now grafted from out of the darkest death and into true light, we are redeemed out of Satan's land and restored into God's Kingdom of eternal life.

Regenerative resurrection blood now flows through us with life everlasting and here not only is the sting of death removed by the Holy Eucharist, but the taste of staleness in death as well. In God's kingdom through the Holy Spirit everything remains new. There is now a fresh maximum perception everyday, for all who know where to look. Then beyond the instability of where love and truth did not line up in a balanced life, steadiness now awaits in the restraints of God's authenticity. Yes, upon request, we find life to build on level holy ground on the firm foundation of Christ, which changes our essence of being from darkness into the brilliance of divine light.

Here's an example of discerning light from the darkness of how an unknown minion enters a living soul and is cast out. When a foggy mind makes it difficult to focus on who you are talking to at times, something is wrong. People who talk at others and not to them have one or more unresolved emotional conflicts which clouds their judgment through a filter of looking at past events that are carried over from an old wound. When old emotions rise up, there is a regression of possession where a boundary was violated in an abusive manner within one's soul, giving permission to an unknown spiritual dragon to enter in. This is due to a lack of understanding the light of truth that comes from God as our defense. When not being able to recognize another person in conversation, division and not unity is taking place because unresolved conflict leaves us in the dark.

Now whenever someone expresses themselves to me in response to my behavior, I listen very carefully with watchful eyes on their facial expression and carefully listen to the tone of their voice. This allows me to know if peace is being maintained or disrupted so that I may correct myself when an apology is in order. God or the devil is speaking to us through other peoples patterns of choice that have been woven into them through what they choose to let out of the gate of their mouths by free will.

Our responses cut back darkness with the light of the Holy Spirit's virtues all the time or vice versa. Unfortunately, there are those who have been seduced into selling their souls to the devil by preferring the deceptiveness of darkness more than light. Yet by persistent prayer, "With God all things are possible."

We grow in our relationships with God's love, which is sewn into the fabric of our patterns while being joined to Him. We are changed in our essence of being until knit so closely to Him that the bond of His loving actions become a part of our nature as secondary in the restraints of God's attributes. He is in us and we are in Him as now a part of the same fabric, snapping the bonds of minions that had a hold on us.

I have learned to discern the differences between God's voice of loving encouragement and the voice of the discouraging threads of the enemy which counters to woo you to its kingdom. If we get these voices mixed up, the end result is confusion, which has no divine light or solutions of how to change a life while here on earth for an eternal better one.

Stepping Stone Relationships

We meet people throughout our lives, starting with a mother and father who have known people throughout their lives in the weave of a societal structure from within and outside the family. Every person we meet is another stepping stone towards shaping how we will view the world. Then depending on who we encounter in our life, like asteroids hitting the earth, if we get hit with a big enough distortion it can rock our world.

There is a darkness which surrounds our fallen world that as a cloak hides the evil forces that dwell within the unseen air of it and here there are spirits that remain hidden from our senses. The purpose of this darkness is to hide the light of God, keep it from getting through, and numb the hearts with lust to blot out all love or even what it looks like. Yet as we grow in our relations with God, the light of His love gradually attunes us to bring things into focus.

The concept of predestination is a theology that says our lives are planned out ahead of time, but this is only partially true, for God made us with a free will to make choices among spiritual voices. Bad choices will determine one lifestyle and good choices will determine another. Take away our will to choose, and without wisdom to make selections on how to apply knowledge to our lives, we could not be sparked to know God's flame of love more intimately.

“Be separate, come out from among them and touch not the unclean thing,” and “God is a rewarder of those who diligently seek Him.” These verses suggest that as trust is earned in a relationship with God, more of the life of His presence will bring more wisdom to add to the grace of His unfathomable mercy in the riches of knowing who He is. Though if this were not our case, we would be unable to fulfill our original purpose, which is to bring our experiences into creation as we were created to create.

We were made in the image of God in every facet until Adam broke our connection with His divine nature and tainted our bloodline under Satan’s leadership to die in death, changing the course of our lives.

Though just as one bad apple can cause others to rot as Satan did when he seduced a third of the angels into their fall, these spiritual forces in this world in the air behind the scenes can now infiltrate by seducing any soul. So, we must also beware of who we let into our lives by being discerning of character as we grow in our relations with others till trust is earned. Reconnecting to God through baptism is essential for this reason. We must enter under the cover of God’s protection by receiving the Holy Spirit, which leads and guides into all truth unless we turn back by choice to again live a lie. For without the truth, we cannot discern the pattern or paths of others. If we remain unvaccinated spiritually, we are not only unprotected from demonic influences, but cannot remain joined to God after inviting Him as His pattern of love and truth in our lives would instead be severed by choice to return to lies. His resurrection blood is unable to flow through our veins effectively without eternal life, “For a double-minded man is unstable in all of His ways and let him not believe that he shall receive anything from the Lord.”

Remember, Satan is a master counterfeiter. So, if you're not growing closer to God more fervently every day, there is something wrong with that picture to me. An increase or decrease in love, mercy, and having a pliable compassionate heart for the lost, as you yourself once were, is an indicator that you should pay attention. For salvation enters us into battling in a war to save the lost by our own testimonies which has now become a part of God's truth as we continue to grow in our relationship with Him.

God says that in the last days He will pour out His Spirit on all flesh and there will be a great dividing as the scoffer goats are separated from the sheep that follow the love of their Shepard. Then those who are of the Lord's flock will become more fervently brilliant while shining for Him and His mission rather than those who are not. Those who become colder and darker about their own affairs while being more focused on themselves are not Christ centered. For every exchange of love strengthens God's kingdom.

Life is not about climbing a ladder in a world's system to become successful. Rather, Jacob's Ladder, which means you have your character shaped into God's image in stages of growth by being humble. Then known by Him when surrendering pride, we can learn more about Him and the design of His world. For

He wrestled with me so I might understand who I am in a relationship with Him. It was in this way that I finally understood my purpose for being here as I have a place in His kingdom. So there you have it. In our personal stepping stones of everyone we encounter in life, we are being shaped. Though there are those people we meet bringing us closer to God, even while doing things in His name or further away from knowing Him more intimately.

Behind the scenes, there are dark angels, which are messengers of Satan that inject thoughts into our minds. People can be used as agents to cause others to be influenced as well while unaware. Ephesians 6:16 “In all circumstances, hold fast to your shield of faith to quench all the flaming arrows of the evil one.” I recall examples of this with so-called friends of mine throughout my youth. For while on my search to find some enjoyment out of life and what everything meant, I could have very easily been seduced to the dark side by alluring poor role models. As I have learned, there are temptations that want to lead us into a spiritual darkness and put out our light.

Review your life and the people that have influenced you for better or worse. Especially the ones who seem to have influenced you for better. Did they cause you to draw away from God while advancing in the world's system? If yes, then they were really Satan's agents living in people in disguise. Though remember, “God works all things out for the good of those who love Him according to His purpose,” and me sitting here being able to write this is a pleasant surprise.

The Pace of God's Timing

“To be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord.” Yes, God’s presence is good. Yet, “Remove thy gaze from off of me, lest I go away and become no more,” is written in Psalm 39 for a reason. For, God’s pace is a pace of peace. So, He gives you breathing space to enjoy His presence in the stillness of it, away from commotion while here on earth. I would have no time to listen to the hearts of other people around me and minister to them otherwise.

A main barrier that I am facing right now is how to communicate the eternal treasures I learn from messenger angels with others without sounding like a college professor or someone who speaks randomly out to lunch, so to speak. I do not want to talk at people but communicate with them on a one to one level that I can watch them shine in the joy of God’s love, too. Later on, God gave me the answer. I am to wait for God’s timing of peace for something to come up in conversation as love never tries to force an issue, even if it is for someone’s good. This is another stepping stone that allows the Holy Spirit to speak through you and discern God’s timing.

God’s timing is not regimented but allows us to grow at the real pace of taking everyone into consideration according to who each individual is. My desire is now the Lord’s and His desire is mine as we have been joined in marriage by His regenerative Blood which has given me eternal life. Once, I was eternally dead, but now I am eternally alive and know the differences of the kingdom of darkness and that of walking in the light because my eyes have been opened to have clarity without confusion in my sight. “For once, dead in my trespasses of sin where walking in the darkness of Satan’s territory, I was blind. Yet, now I see.” I have received the kingdom of eternal life in God’s timing through being guided by the Holy Spirit. Yes, there is still more to learn while looking through the mirror darkly till I see Jesus face to face, but as a God of the living, I grow nearer to Him daily with the increase of becoming more vibrantly alive. Before I was dying in stagnation as Satan’s property and now I am alive to enjoy God’s presence as my love increases for Him daily by His Spirit being poured out upon all of my flesh.

Jesus is the prince of peace. So, as love does not force in His Kingdom, I am under the yolk of His Leadership as His way is easy and gives me rest for my soul by trusting in Him. For within His timing, there is fullness of life.

Overlooked

Because of the societal structure in which we live, there's a tendency to lean towards a competitive pride that mainly does not consider others. It's easy to lose ourselves in this mix. Taking on characteristics in unfriendly pranks where people are known to have fun at the expense of others in abusive manners for a laugh by embarrassing them, I do not find funny but painful. Then when followed by the words, "Be a good sport," or "Can't you take a joke?" assimilates others into a spirit of what is called, "Horse Jesting." There is no such thing as a practical joke, for a cheap laugh in the thrill of a fading moment does not last long. Its unstable nature is not to be compared to the fullness of a joy that allows us to know that we are walking in the kingdom of eternal life.

"Now is the kingdom of heaven at hand and now is the prince of this world cast out." The prince of darkness would have the light of life found in eternity deflected and keep us from learning of it in any way this fallen angel can.

There is also a cousin spirit that works in conjunction with "Horse Jesting" called "Backbiting." Venting about others under breath negates God and places oneself in control. For how can anyone pray, except amiss, when focusing on dark thoughts that do not bring God closer while getting locked away deeper inside themselves? These little minions hide in the shadows as foxes that nip away at the vine of our lives and going unnoticed when next to the larger ones such as greed, lust, and pride, they are easily missed. Yet, they are just as damaging because evil tries to get a foothold before it moves into a stronghold.

A foothold in the Bible refers to demonic oppression as to gain comfort in our souls till desensitized. In demonic oppression, a discomfort of peace is experienced unless you call upon God to remove it. Those who play God in the pride of life by trying to cover things up on their own or with their own remedies sink down into deeper darkness.

I am reminded of how playing chameleon roles as a small child was a form of protection for me. I was so abused in my neighborhood that we either needed to move or I needed to change myself. I became good at playing the role of another person. I figured that if I went along with a bad situation, put up a front and befriended my enemy that they would leave me alone. It worked till I became my own enemy by losing sight of who I really was in the process.

People get imprisoned unless they turn themselves over to the light of God's truth, which states that he is able when we trust Him in place of ourselves. Not knowing God caused me to survive by playing something I was not, causing confusion in my life. Was it foolish to love while playing chameleon, for a while the world seemed sane. Survival of the fittest seemed the way to go until I found out that Darwin was mistaken. Further darkness, through the perpetuation of his lie, has grown by being deceived into believing that we can handle life.

Strongholds move in when this foothold goes unnoticed after being worn down through repeated abuse, one becomes used to their discomfort from being desensitized. A demon will rob you of your self-esteem and have you cater to it to meet its needs as a dictator in your life. By keeping you in denial through familiar patterns of behavior that grow to become deceptively comfortable, your emotions shut down, skewing your vision to not notice a stolen life. A life that is being destroyed is being led to live to die while kept in the dark.

Do not practice what you do not understand. For if you do, it will not be the true essence of who God made you to be. I have grown to know that I must engage my brain while looking into the truth of God's light before putting my mouth into gear or I will find myself in a punishing dark and painful pit. "The grave enlarges its mouth as many go down into the pit."

Only God can remove any dark areas of shame from our lives. He dips our tainted bleeding souls into His regenerative blood upon request and makes us new again, "I am a new creation in Christ Jesus." After being met by Him in our lives, others should take notice of our change enough for them to enquire. Here we can give an account of our testimonies of what God has done for us when questioned. Remember, God is the one who opens and closes doors within all lives. He is the way to a life that is truthful that will be reflected by us having a full and free life. A sociopath is one who has completely lost themselves and serves Satan in a hellish existence while here on earth and no minion spirit can be removed by tainted dying blood while in best effort. “The road to hell is paved by good intentions.” So, unless the purity of the blood of Christ is commingled with us, eternal life will be missed.

Minions behind our thoughts have roots that draw from the realm of time and when spoken out by our actions and words, there is a transfer of our energy to them. This is why we must stand under the shadow of Almighty God and abide by Him in a living blood relationship that must lock our hands together with His and walk in an eternity of knowing Him within our lives. For it is the authority of God’s protection that allows us to walk in the light and inside the realm of eternal life while in time.

Remember: “Our righteousness is as filthy rags.” So, beware of a spiritual pride that refuses to listen to the body of the believers of Jesus Christ’s church. “For the measure which you judge, you shall be judged.” A good general can carefully discern to listen to His men as a Shepherd is not above his flock in the kingdom of God. It may appear that this Lord’s servant must be in tune with the flock, not so. He must mind the Lord first to be able to minister to their needs while looking to Him. Understand that the role of a priest in the order of the church is to minister to the Lord for our example of focus. His flock's welfare is to be submissive under the authority of the church established by Jesus Christ, so that all may obtain eternal life. Everyone is so quick to figure all out in prideful thoughts without consulting their emotions. This is why we're to "Be quick to listen, slow to speak, and do not enter into strife."

Know Your Opponent

Anything that threatens the stability of a sound and stable mind is your opponent. For as in a wrestling match, the one who maintains balance will gain the advantage. So if the mind of Christ has you at peace in an emotional mad/glad/sad spectrum of calm, your self-esteem will be maintained. For connecting with truthful thoughts in a loving way holds all together. Then while in a cohesive and level fashion, you'll know clearly when something is being disruptive. For just as your words need an expression of fullness in an eternal life, there is a devil that shall want to take it from you by stealing your calm which is giving you joy.

I remember when I was a small child, after a heavy snow, I would like to go out to where a long sloping hill met with a wooded area and build snow forts. This was a joyous relaxing activity for me that I enjoyed doing every year until some very antagonizing bullies discovered me at play and came over and rocked my world.

While I was in the process of building, they came over and started smashing all the work I put into it. This sudden disruption of my peace robbed me of my only solitude and my joy along with it. You see that darkness, unstableness, and confusion in the home led me to find serenity outside of my situation elsewhere and this safe place was now taken from me as well.

I was defenseless and hadn't a clue on how to defend myself against the onslaught of this enemy. I bring this up because the spiritual world is very similar. For without having someone who was greater than me in strength, I was left open to attack.

Crushed, my self-esteem was smashed as I could not defend my physical boundaries or emotional space. I let myself down by not knowing how to face this situation, which caused me to run from myself to escape the pain of my abuse. I was left to search elsewhere for solitude and this caused a breach in my psyche. For we all live in the belly of a beast world where we pick up addictions of all sorts that numbs out the pain of being spiritually digested. For when we cry out in the night not knowing where to find an answer, we easily become devoured by the spiritual lion of dark fear.

Feather floating in the air will you ever land to touch with pain or is pain thy very name. Meaning, "Do you have any safe place to embrace your pain and heal?" It is not possible to find unless held by God's hand in the solitude of a safe place. Will you keep on the move and continue to endure your unresolved painful situations within the handbreadth of the breadth which passes throughout time?

You must find and fully trust in the Lord who is able to forgive and cleanse you of spirits that gnaw on the thoughts in your mind, yet only pure regenerative blood can wash out tainted blood. All of your prideful transgressions of unrighteousness are forgiven upon request when meeting Him with a genuinely sorrowful heart due to His mercy alone. He allows you to draw unto Himself because He cleanses you by the love of His pure blood.

The devil is out there to throw you off balance by stealing the joy of resting in His promises. “The joy of the Lord is our strength.” This fallen angel tries to get you to trade your peace in exchange for spirits of darkness to block you from fully entering the light of Our Father. “Satan is a roving lion seeking whom he may devour.” When someone is left unprotected, this evil one’s purpose is to drain our energy. “Be angry and sin not let not the sun go down on your wrath.” For if we do not follow God’s instruction, our emotional energy can be used against us, making our souls dark and spiritually sick. Shutting down into a depression which prevents us from being still to discover eternal life is the end result. “Hope deferred is depression.”

“We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities and powers, spiritual wickedness in the high places.” Any manner of spirit that would bring further confusion to life by robbing us of solitude is evil. The devil likes to keep us in chaos, for while we are in commotion, we cannot slow down long enough to answer His call of “Be still and know that I am God.”

After being hit with catastrophic upheavals that happen to us in life, if we are not “. . . absent from the body and present with the Lord,” beforehand it makes it difficult for our Lord to be, “. . .an ever present help in time of need.” My logic tells me that my God cannot be a stranger to me. For entering into the light of truth by grace, we join ourselves to the God who is all truth. Not living in lies is what further brings clarity to our minds. Relations with Him whom is good edifies, as it equates to us spending time with Him, which is proof of a genuine relationship and there is no guessing for me here. Knowing the truth behind the real relations of His loving presence ushers me into entering His kingdom through the conversation of prayer and knowing eternal life.

Now After identifying with me in my situation, I want you to go back into your life and invite God to set you free. Trace out areas in your life that caused you to run from light and find solace in darkness and perpetuate a lie that stole your fullness of life and the freedom that it brings.

When I was learning how to swim in the water, the lifeguard had something called a “buddy system.” Two swimmers would be paired up to keep an eye on each other during what was called free swim. I have come to know Jesus as my buddy while swimming within the ocean of time can be painful at times. I am very well aware that I must become a strong empath of a spiritual swimmer while learning to consider others before I can progress into the deep end with Him.

In life, I believe we are all in training to be lifeguards seated in heavenly places with Christ Jesus to watch out for others at the end of it. For what better way is there to learn the purpose of bearing the fruits of God’s character of virtue but by the Holy Spirit. God knows where I am in the process of getting to know my habits till one day His mercy will be more fully understood.

Invite in God's redemptive love to replace your pain of prideful loneliness that you, too, can fully enter eternal life while here on earth as it is in Heaven. For "You will know the truth and the truth will set you free."

Reality - ?

The meaning of: “Be still and know that I am God.”

Just as Abram left the societal structures of his day to receive the breath of God’s expression of AH to become Abraham in homelessness, so must we in order to find God, spiritually. Abraham set the stage by an old covenant contract by law under God’s grace for what could be understood as a New Covenant by grace later on. The light and the life of all men only wants to perpetuate a pure relationship of loving the truth. We leave the systems of this world by having faith in the Son of God and inheriting eternal life through the doorway of stillness by calling on Jesus Christ’s regenerative blood as the answer to living in His Kingdom of truth while here on earth. Those who acknowledge this are now in this world’s structure but no longer of it spiritually as they agree to adhere to the kingdom of God’s Completed accomplishment of His work on the Cross. Jesus has set the stage to let us know that it is hard to quiet ourselves and love in the face of adversity.

In stillness, we acknowledge our helplessness in this world and state by a mercifully simple request that we trust God, Our Father, on earth as it is in heaven to provide for us through the sustenance of His substance throughout eternity. He always calls us to act in the voice of the Spirit over the voice of the flesh no matter what the outcome may appear. Remember, Satan is a crafty liar, this is why it is always darkest before the dawn.

The world in which we live has no stability and is a cold place. It has no light or warmth from God's love due to a tremendous upheaval in a battle in another realm which can only be described, a parallel universe. I have not seen it, but I know it is there and we are here in this realm called time to protect the genocide of mankind due to the first man not trusting God. Through miraculous healings, I have seen the door open and close between these two worlds while having the warmth of God's love flow through me. I have personally witnessed this happen as a part of my testimony to the truth of the existence of Jesus Christ, still being alive, and look forward to receiving the full embrace of God's love when he calls me home.

I want to state that Jesus was never homeless while here on earth as the fullness of His kingdom is with Him at all times on earth as it is in heaven. Beware of things that are lacking in the substance of what God has to offer. For they can become a stumbling block in obtaining a full relationship with Him here on earth as it is in heaven in eternal life. Ask yourself, "Do I want to know the God who I will be spending eternity with or settle for mere trinkets of a world's system that has no stability?" A diamond has great value, because under tremendous pressure it is formed to be the hardest substance here on earth. I feel it is a perfect example of the value and beauty of the Son of God, who sparkled with eternal truth while here in the setting on earth.

There is a veil of darkness that consumes the world and hides the creatures that live within it that want you to manipulate its resources for personal gain to be comfortable in instability. The warmth of God's loving light reveals this and He has more than what the voices that call out to you in the darkness of your thoughts without light has to offer. Trust Him, and you will experience a platform of a stable peace to grow eternally from. For when you gain an understanding of who you were originally meant to be, you will meet the God of who you'll be partially reflecting one day. "You will know Him as He is when you see Him face to face."

Stages of spiritual Growth

WOMB / WORLD / ETERNAL LIFE

How does a living soul inherit eternal life? Healing is a process.

“Study to show thyself approved.”

-Comprehending eternal life reveals answers-

Truth + Love (balance) = Light, coming alive gives perspective!

Taught peace while entertaining messenger angels from God as a ready writer, days have turned into nights for over forty-five years, stability has come.

“Gone Sane” is a love story of how award winning author R. A. Feller found real light in a wilderness of societies while passing through all obstacles to heal.

Battling fallen angels in Godly visions, I’m gifted to use my pen as a warrior poet’s sword. Advancing with sight through darkness, ground has been gained in true light. Sanity! I fought hard to capture living with focus.

“Love never fails!” My mind is clear where all was dark. The door is now opened for a sojourn with Jesus leading on, contentment has come.
